Welcome, Highroller! I really appreciate your honesty and willingness to reach out to others. I am also an SSA struggler. My recent journey has been to try to explore and understand its origins in my life, accept it, and work to learn how to develop healthy emotional connections with men that can satisfy me but not fuel my SSA lusting. Thru GYE I participated in a few cycles of Jonathan Hoffman's weekly phone conferences for men struggling with SSA. More recently I started working privately with Jonathan on emotional wound healing. Sounds like you're on the road to a better life and am moved by your efforts in that direction. Hatzlacha rabah!

To be honest I've never spoken about it to anyone.

I have been messing around since 11 years old in school, with a few diff boys.

But there was one boy who wasnt in my class, who actually got me kicked out school, we wernt really messing around down below, just openly walking around hugging and holding hands. One day my Headmaster called me in the office and had a long chat all about it and basically told me catches me saying a word to that boy again, and i wil be kicked out instantly.

Being in the relationship that we were in, i wasnt goin to stop talking to him and within an hour of that meeting i was walking out of the school gates;-)

I did get back in to school though.

Moving on to yeshiva this carried on, all with the same boys that I was in school with, even though they were in diff yeshivos.

One thing which i could not understand, happened quite a few years in a row, Daven the whole yom Kippur that we should be forgiven, and that it wil never happen again and within an hour of motza i would be chillin like mad.

HOW CAN IT BE ?? and that would then carry on til the next resolution which also wouldnt last very long hashem yerachem.

Been constantly Trying to be shomer habris, with chizuk and charts etc... nothing would ever last. The longest i ever did was 20 days, it was rosh hashona time last year and I was by the holy Rebbe Reb Nachman.

Hopefully that's about to change and keep clean forever and ever. Amen

One good step may be to reach out to some successful people here as partners. It is usually ver helpful.

Next Chapter and this is deff the worst chapter of my life..... May hashem have mercy on me.

So after yeshiva came back to work and stopped chilin, besides for the occasional M/B.

Until I came across a close friend who was similar age to me and was having same problems as me. We started chilling like crazy and because we were close friends would basically always go away together and always be around each other..... It was not good, we were in a proper secret relationship and we were always chilling.

I recently decided to stop talking to him and one day to the next just started completly ignoring him because of this.

I just spoke to him last night for the first time in a very long time, I was under a lot of pressure from a lot of people to make up with him, because they just thought we fell out over something small, because I obviously didn't want to tell them the real reason, didn't want to embarrass myself or him. I hope I did the right thing by speaking to him and I hope/ pray to Hashem, that if anything tries to happen ever again, I will be able to fight it.

At the same time I was watching a lot of G Pn.

I was also constantly downloading and deleting G Chat apps and ACTUALLY meeting up with random non Jews. WTF WAS I THINKING ???!

That's why it's so important that I get a filter that monitors apps as well.

Prefer to hang out on Holy Gye Forums instead of the other dirty forums that I have been hanging about on recently.

Interestingly the email address that I opened for all these dirty schmutz sites, is now being used for GYE and of course all the schmutz sites have been unsubscribed.

May It be a merit for me.

Another very bad issue that happened in this period, was that for the last 2 years I didn't have a proper job, so I basically was getting an income and it was stressing me out, and at certain points in this period, I was chatting to sugar daddies etc

Thank God Nothing ever happened Because I never followed through with it, because I had to constantly remind myself, that I'm not going to see any blessing from this Ossur money so no point, but it was definitely a big temptation.....

That's why I wrote in my intro that I pray that this job that I got now should be really successful.
