Hi, everyone I'm a 21 year old bochur, struggled with masturbation since 14! Went to Yeshivah and bh had no access to technology so it wasn't really a issue then when I got a smartphone 2 years ago the issue started again. Bh I discovered this website 3 weeks ago, then I installed webchaver and iml very careful now with Shmiras ainayim whilst walking in the street, and I've also joined the 90 day challenge and I'm currently 16 days clean! lyh many more day by day with the eibishter's help!

Any other bochurim out there in my boat?

Thanks hhm for the encouragement!

I must say my decision to not be on my phone after a certain time by night, really helps!

I've also made extra chavrusah's so I have much less time to feel the urges bh, I even have to find the time to go on gye lol

Boredom was what caused me last time to fall..

For me, boredom or down time as I called it, was (is?) a huge cause of acting out. My brain wanders 'there' when it's not occupied.

Hatzlacha on your session tomorrow. It an be scary opening yourself up to a stranger, but remember that he's already heard and met people in the same situation, so you won't be shocking him with your story.

I don't know if you can be a "free man emotionally" in the first visit, but iy'H it's a big step forward.

I think that by now you should really change this topic name from "struggling bochur" to "amazing bochur". Your daily posts show more and more what an amazing fellow you are. Nothing will stand in your way for recovery. No matter how hard things are, you stay focused on your 'amazing' journey. You should have lots of hatzlucha in therapy, and may continue inspiring us for many years to come!!!!

Thanks for the feedback everyone!

@gyehelp2017 I love your suggestion, the name though "a struggling bochur" is a big catch for new bochurim that join and they can benefit by getting different ideas.

Anyhow I just went today to my therapist, it was very easy opening up to him, as I've gotten over that fear. I had no problem telling him all my side issues I've always pushed aside.

Tachlis he told me not to start dating till I've fully recovered in all areas. My Rav doesn't know all my side issues (and doesn't need to either, he isn't a therapist after all) and I'm sure when I tell him my therapist doesn't exactly encourage me starting for the next while, he'll definitely side with him.

My rav I use for spiritual help, and therapist for emotional help.

Anyhow got to run and learn. Hatslocho to all!

I love the attitude! Remember that for MOST PEOPLE the path to lasting freedom consists of falling and getting back up, again and again.

Some shnitzel updates:

So I finally pinpointed with the help of my therapist why I was turning to porn, why I felt that emptiness, unfulfillment, resentment etc

Part of what we do is "emotions release" which is basically me putting my hands in a certain way, saying that I'm holding a specific negative emotion in my hands and I choose to throw it away, and put my hands behind my head as if I'm shaking it off.

First time he told me to do it, I felt like I'm sitting high up in the Indian mountains next to a guru, and following his religion. But it really works and I've checked it up, it's fine according to Torah too.. it doesn't stem from "?"

And mainly it works, it gives me a headache instantly which is a sign of energy being released, but point is my urges have decreased by literally 80%, I guess that emptiness and voidness is being filled up other ways, as the negative feeling causing me to wanna act out have had a big chunk of it cut out.

Hope I make sense, the therapy makes me quite moody and feelings go up and down.

P.s. I finally found a geshmake profile pic
