So I was clean for a long time but fell so hard I'm back where I started. I'm planning on writing every day or other day as a method I hope will help me. Today was meant to be my first clean day but guess what it wasn't I'm still in this spiral downward and I'm hoping to help myself before I reach the bottom. So just did the act and feel as empty as possible. But for the next 24 hours this is going to be different

Cmon son u got this

It is common that when you fall after a long time of being clean, you fall hard.

Main thing is to understand why you fall.

Then work on that cause or causes.

If you write every day, a creative outlet, that will help.

I too was clean for a long time then, fell, but am now thank G-D clean again for a while.

You can take it day by day and keep clean.
