Hi I just signed up! I was addicted to pornography as a teen, and still slip up every once in a while, but the real issue is that it's never ever far from my thoughts, if my wife accidentally leaves her computer open (mine has webchaver) i either struggle for my life not to fall, or fall. please please give me chizuk i want to be a simple person like i was when i was a child.

I guess the adult world has brought you some bumps and bruises.

If we can all access that purity our childhood, we can be happier and want to learn and enthusiastic about life.

I guess the trick is to know that the daily struggles are real but a veil, and the nicer inner world lies beyond them.
