

Make it to Yeshiva

Posted by YeshivaGuy - 04 Aug 2020 05:33

Hi everyone,

First I want to say that I am humbled and honored to be in the presence of such Giborei Koach, true warriors of Hakadosh Baruch Hu.

I bh am not addicted to pornography.

I haven't been on a porn website.

But I'm getting close, and I'm here to gain chizuk not to fall into it.

Once I return to Yeshiva I'm safe, but as long as I'm home I'm in danger, and bh I haven't fallen into pornography. However it's the next step, chalila.

I bh am running a camp, so I started keeping busy, so bh have only been nichshal once in the last 3 weeks.

i want to just express my gratitude to all of you, and my great admiration for each and every one of you.

My Yetzer tries telling me "comon, porn can't be that bad, it's just the word that sounds scary" or like "it can't be so different than YouTube videos"

So I'm here to gain that chizuk.

thank you!

Nichshal again, filter doesn't work now, no way to fix it that I know of for now. I can say the reason but don't wanna give ppl ideas.

With it not working I saw borderline vids and when I got to bed obv went down...

Hey YG, good to hear you're still forging ahead despite all these attacks from the soviet hacking corp bunker bombing our filters.

I wanted to comment on 1 things you wrote - if I may.

"filter doesn't work now"

Filters are not designed to "work". They are designed to be a small fence that catches us - if we wish to allow it to. Sometimes life gets too tough and we prefer to get that ladder and jump over the filter.

The filter is not broken.

Rather sometime we are broken, and when that happens, the filter isn't designed to help us, nor be the guy to put us together again.

Am I making sense?

Very very true.

Its a hard thing to accept but you're right.

Thanks

Howdy fellas!

Thanks to those who've reached out during my absence here, and sorry for my silence.

Its been a lot, but no need to rehash right now.

Went back home cuz had corona, starting to feel better so hopefully will go back2moro.

Its an exciting time though, I'm giving learning another shot. Plan is to go to shiur.

Was derailed with corona/feeling pretty sick, getting up though and giving it a shot.

Feels embarrassing to go back to the beis, feels so much like it's not for me, but I'm gonna go.

I have no clue at this point what I want in life but I'll give this a shot and see what happens.

Its hard to explain it, but my bones are pushing me back. Not my mind but my very bones.

Was clean 7 days.

Went out for shabbos with a friend.

He was talking tons bout the girl he's dating.

Place we stayed by had a young couple at the meal today, I didn't know.

The wife was super pretty and talkative etc and I wasn't careful with my eyes...

Anyway, back to Yeshiva and moving on

I'll be cryptic:

I can go somewhere for a day or two under the guise of a mitzva, but there's a girl there I know I'll end up hanging out/shmuzzing a lot with and will be horrible for me but super fun.

Gonna hold back, I surmise.

Why not make a Mitzva out of it?

You're already in the Parsha!

Depending on where one is holding in therapy, the idea of marriage may be too scary. On the other hand, it can give a person a whole new purpose, new goals, and a fresh start away from home.

Definitely worth bringing up with your therapist to see if he thinks you are ready. If you are making progress in therapy and you find that he is helping you navigate life, you can be confident that even if you struggle during marriage with whatever you are dealing with, he will be able to guide you through it and you will be able to grow from it.

Maybe I misread, but I don't remember YG saying he's in the parsha, I think his friend is. (Maybe he spoke to you off the forum)

Thanks for taking the time to comment and taking interest in my life.

As of now it's poshut to me that I'm not ready to date yet. Baruch HaShem I've made big strides this year in my mental health, dealing with trauma etc, but I still have a ways to go.

Also, although this girl and I "click," I don't think it's a good shidduch for different reasons...

Lol good Shaila.

There was a point I wanted to be a Rebbi. I then switched to wanting to be a therapist (perhaps a R' Wallerstein type figure).

As I began this tekufa of upheaval while dealing with trauma, I began thinking I wanted to go into business, perhaps pursuing a degree in accounting.

Now however, I simply don't know anymore, and am trying to take things day by day, deal with my inyanim, and slowly get back to learning.
