

Make it to Yeshiva

Posted by YeshivaGuy - 04 Aug 2020 05:33

Hi everyone,

First I want to say that I am humbled and honored to be in the presence of such Giborei Koach, true warriors of Hakadosh Baruch Hu.

I bh am not addicted to pornography.

I haven't been on a porn website.

But I'm getting close, and I'm here to gain chizuk not to fall into it.

Once I return to Yeshiva I'm safe, but as long as I'm home I'm in danger, and bh I haven't fallen into pornography. However it's the next step, chalila.

I bh am running a camp, so I started keeping busy, so bh have only been nichshal once in the last 3 weeks.

i want to just express my gratitude to all of you, and my great admiration for each and every one of you.

My Yetzer tries telling me "comon, porn can't be that bad, it's just the word that sounds scary" or like "it can't be so different than YouTube videos"

So I'm here to gain that chizuk.

thank you!

Chavrusa situation for next zman isn't looking good at all for both sedarim.

Oy. Just relinquishing myself to HaShem. Going to sleep.

Saw a girl my age eating pizza at a table in pizza shop.

She looked up when I walked by.

Usually I'd be thinking in my mind "OMG she wants sex! I should go flirt with her and get her number!"

But today I was like "that's a person eating pizza."

Anyway, almost done the zman here, not on the greatest of highs but that's the situation...

Yup indeed - a person eating pizza.

?The profundity of your posts blow me away.

Every time.

Long live King YG!

Ok folks, Bein Hazmanim starts tomorrow.

As far as plans, we got the no internet browsing deal/commitment.

We got the no sleeping in room with my iPhone thing.

Now, to be honest, that's gonna be hard Imaaseh.....

Then there's the learning/davening thing.

So there's no Bais HaMedrash by me, so I could commit to driving 25 min every day to a a BM, but that's hard commitment idk...

I could wake up, work out, daven neitz, then learn in my room.

I can stam bumb out and go to minyan once in awhile, idk.

I just don't wanna be in the situation where I'm lying in bed all day posting on GYE whining about not going on the internet/Masterbating.

I want to chazer 30 blast Gemara rashi tosfos in Yevamos. I want to learn some more maamarim in Pachad Yitzchak for Pesach. And I want to prepare shiur for the summer where I'll be giving shiur every morning.

Those are my goals.

Unsure about my chavrusa matzav for next zman, but that's not my concern right now.

My objective at this point is to survive and thrive under the upcoming weeks.

Looking forward to continuing this journey together. I'm aware that things won't be perfect, as they never are.

I ask HaShem Yisborach to grant me the Emuna, Bitachon, and the resolve, to emerge from this upcoming tekufa as a true ?? ????? ??? ?????.

Wow your posts and progress are so inspiring!

Here's a guy that's from a modern background, had/has all the internet access he wants (or doesn't), if I could guess he was in a co-ed class for at least some of his childhood, doesn't even have a BM near where he lives...

And with all that look where he is holding

He's 190+ days clean.

Gave up his connection to girls.

He's steiging in Yeshiva.

Wants to give up his smartphone, his parents probably think he went crazy or something...

Is not going online over bein Hazmanim.

Won't sleep near his phone at night.

Turned into a real Yeshiva Guy!

Truly Amazing!

Keep inspiring others

I came home a few hours ago.

It feels like I'm in a vacuum of time. The first thought that comes to mind upon boredom is to go on internet. I realize this will be harder than I thought.

Theres just nothing here, it's a midbar.

I hope to wake up early tomorrow to daven, work out, and learn. Starting the day right is key.

It's a scary thing, this concept of time and bechira. Time exists and passes no matter what. And it's within my control what happens during that period.

Time can not be escaped. It can only be harnessed and utilized for conscious construction, or mindless destruction.

Will stay b'kesher, I'm going to need it.

Is there a project that you can take upon yourself to do that you would enjoy doing when you're bored?

Apart from learning I mean, something like painting a room or sorting out the garage, maybe even building a model of the beis hamikdash, just something to turn to when you are home?

And I'll repeat what I say to myself every day 'YeshivaGuy is the tzaddik that we all wish to be. He is the person to learn from. Work hard Starting and you'll also get there'

Thanks for this important point.

Im very into genealogy, but requires going on the internet...

Not sure about another hobby, though maybe I'll find a way to do the genealogy...

I can relate genealogy completly overtakes me when I'm in the mood. Try researching the towns where these people came from, you can even visit them on Google maps, some towns have Jewish landmarks like shuls and cemeteries, as well as standing tomb stones, it really can give you the feel of going back in time.

And here I thought I was the "European-town-nostalgic-geek"....yet happy to see that others are plagued with this condition as well!

?Gaining a deep understanding of our roots - especially the glory of the Yeshivos during the interwar period - has been a game changer for me.

And of course, the face of the original (and true!) Ish MiGrodno graces all 4 sides of my office at work...so my spiritual role model is "there for me" while I make many of my daily decisions.

YeshivaGuy Shlita,you are very much walking the streets of the heilige towns of Mir and Telshe without even setting foot in them!

Tons of taiva, it's just "too easy" to nichshal here. It's insane.

Ill go out for a drive to try calming down, I gotta make it through this motzei Shabbos.

Trying to be smart and not put myself in difficult situations.

Will keep y'all posted

Put yourself in tomorrow's shoes.

Good call, plans fell through for tonight, we'll see what I do.

My little brother wants me to play video games with him but I just gotta get out.

I need to keep in mind that this emotion must be dealt with in a healthy and not destructive manner
