Wow it sounds like you have a story many can gain from, we feel in your pain. working with Gye and all the many Chaverim here, you have a bright future ahead.

?May HKBH give you the strength needed to DEMOLISH this Yetzer hora once & for all.

Love from all of us at GYE.

I want to take the time to offer a translation for those who don't speak Yiddish. I believe this thread will be incredibly painful but will help a lot of people who went through similar situations but don't have the ability to share it. (Feel free to assist in the translation if I don't get to it).

Translation:

Alas! From where shall I take the strength to write? It's most difficult to go back in time to the dark days, but when one requires an operation, it must be done regardless of the pain.

Like I already mentioned, that when I went to ??? as a child, instead of the rebbi teaching me the holy torah that the yidden received at Har Sinai, the rebbi introduced me to "sex life". Because of this I couldn't pay attention during class and I wasn't able to keep up with the subjects, causing me to have to stay back and remain by the same rebbi for an additional year, so the monster had my body for another year.

At home I recieved murderous blows from my father- until blood ran (without exaggeration), because I didn't know the subjects.

Incredible. Most people don't go through a tenth of what you already went through in your first post. I can't imagine the astounding pain you went through and are still going through. The fact that you're still a regular normal adult leading a regular life is an inspiration to everyone and shows what a person is capable of. Only respect brother. Please continue sharing!

Grant

 friends, need to stop now.

Translation:

Dear friend, just as it is hard for me to continue it is also hard not to continue. It falls under the category of "Woe a unto me if I say, and woe unto me if I don't say". I will not go into minor detail even though they are many, because I don't want to be too graphic and cause triggers. Therefore many times I will write generally or with an example.

Continuation: As the years went by I went from one rebbi to another. The other rabbeim weren't child molesters but evil and wicked people they were as well. One small spark of hope was that in my mind I knew that after my bar mitzvah I will go to a different school and I will use that occasion as an opportunity for a new beginning. My dear friends! I lived through a labor camp and I now arrived at a death camp, that was my new beginning. Like the minhag of chassidim (shotim) from the bar mitzvah and on they use the mikvah daily. Everything is done for kedusha v'tahara. Over there in the mikvah a pedophile took a liking to me. This is the beginning of the story, that I call my experience in the spiritual gas chamber. Sorry friends, I need to stop now.?

So, so painful my friend. I honestly feel for you. I'm speechless.

Dear demolished,

All I can say is, If this is how painful it is for us to see what you've been through, we cannot fathom how painful it must be for the Ribono shel oilam.

May HKBH give you the continued strength and siyato dishmayo, you've come to a place of people who truly care about you.

what's even more amazing is that you are now inspiring and being Mashpia on others Letovah, exactly the opposite of your youth.

This must be a nachas ruach to HKBH like none other.

We daven for you, and will not leave go until you see the true path to happiness.

with pain,

excellence

@demolished How's it going?

Like many others, I relate too well (unfortunately) to your story and your struggles.

Oh, How I yearn for your serenity!

Writing your story is probably therapeutic but I'm asking about the future.

How are you doing on your path to serenity?

How quickly are you taking the shattered and demolished pieces and creating the magnificent tower that you can be?

Share with us. Show us what your potential is. Show us the ?????? ?????? ??????.

And most importantly, tell us what works for you, which could help many of us.

?You, who have been through the worst of abuse, you can and will be our role model as we fight our way to Kedusha.

If you could even write some small update, just to tell us how the day is going, everyevery day or two, that alone can keep us (and you) in the spirit.
