

New to the site

Posted by edgloss - 14 Dec 2020 17:49

Just wanted to say hello. I'm new.

=====

Re: New to the site

Posted by YeshivaGuy - 14 Dec 2020 17:54

Welcome!

Tell us about yourself, your struggles etc.

You can overcome anything and everything.

Together, nothing can stop us.

We'll never give up on you. And you, must never give up on yourself.

B'ezras Hashem you will have Hatzlocha bekarov.

A Freilechen Chanuka!

YeshivaGuy

=====

Re: New to the site

Posted by Grant400 - 14 Dec 2020 20:46

edgloss wrote on 14 Dec 2020 17:49:

Just wanted to say hello. I'm new.

Hey! Welcome! Can you share a little bit more, and explain exactly why you're here? We'd love to get to know you a little better!

=====
=====

Re: New to the site

Posted by StrugglingToGuardMyEyes - 14 Dec 2020 22:13

Just wanted to say hello, never did this sort of thing before. Well here i am doing i never did before, hopefully it will become something that will end up becoming my lifeline. i started at the age of 13, becoming a porn and masturbating addict. i grew up not religious so i never gave it a second thought to what i was doing. and now 12 years later, at the age of 25, i'm still continuing this disgraceful act. I am shomer shabbat for 3 years already and currently trying to keep growing in my yiddishkite. But i have a feeling that this addiction is holding me back from what i can do.

I have attempted to take precautions, like filter and not associating myself with women and trying to not look at women when i look outside... and i learn torah as well, which is the only antidote to the poison that ive taken. But even with all that ive done,i still find myself going back to my old ways, finding a device and doing my misdeeds... i can put a filter on everything but my brain. The thoughts that i keep getting make it much harder... But with all that ive done in a span of 12 years, having a mind like this is normal. I just need to spend time away from the bad stuff and my mind will hopefully return to normal.

So i'm here, trying to find new ways to get myself removed from the never ending chain that ive got myself involved in. Looking from another method, another salvation, a permanent salvation.

I have not spoken to anyone about this matter, to anyone close to me, because they are human and humans that you associate with will naturally judge unless they know what youre going through due to experience and such. But i've heard that one of the ways to break free is by having someone to talk to and by speaking to them and they root for you, your willpower will grow much more due to reasons that you dont want the one that is rooting for you, the one that wants you to change for the better, the one that doesnt want you to suffer anymore, you don't want this person to be let down, so thats what i'm going to attempt, by being here.

i need a way to remove myself from the clutches that satan has me in. i know i can do it. Even though everyday is a new battle, and even though everyday i seem to keep failing every battle that i find myself in, even then.... i hope to one day succeed permanently.

I am in your hands. thank you for listening to what i have to say... i dont know if i did this correctly, thank you. and feel free to say to me what exactly i am, what it is i need to be, do, act, and so on.

=====

=====