

What am I supposed to do?

Posted by tryingtobeholy - 25 Dec 2023 14:30

Hi everyone!

I am an 18 year old Bochur, I'm out of Yeshiva for a while, and I'm desperately searching for a suitable job for myself but I'm just getting stuck with "potential" jobs. Basically, besides the fact that many times I'm dead bored, I'm also frustrated and feeling bad about myself, feeling rejected. I don't have any friends who I can speak to on a daily basis. My relationship with my parents is not too great either. My father I don't talk to at all. My mother is a different story. I'm struggling with Yiddishkeit too. I don't Daven, don't say Berachos, and I'm just sitting and wondering what am I supposed to do to hold myself back from getting onto porn for some soothing?

I don't really have anyone who understands me, who I can relate to and who can offer guidance. Not a friend, not a mentor...

You came to the right place.

Ive also been thrown out/rejected from a few yeshivas, and sitting around feeling like a failure sucks. I cant give you any advice, but if you need someone to commiserate with, im here.

and don't think that you are never going to be anything, i honestly believe that going through those tough times is what made me become a better person.

It's a lousy place to be. I'm familiar with many of the resources out there. If you're interested in knowing more I can let you know.

Welcome chaver! You seem to be in great pain. We are here for you. At GYE we don't judge anyone and hopefully you'll be able to find great inspiration as well as find great new friends here - and you never know... maybe we'll help you find a job as well...

Welcome!

It's incredible that you are trying to become better or not get worse at least, I was in yeshiva not so long ago and I remember how it feels without friends, no davening, no brachos.... but don't beat yourself up, try your best and don't give up! maybe take 5 minutes a day to speak ti hashem in your own words, and if you don't want to speak to him because you feel he hates you because of what you are going through, it's ok and you can tell him that as well.

As others have recommended, reach out!

Stay strong! we are with you.
