Hello.

You say you never sinned with someone, then you say you made a lot of people crazy.

Care to explain?

Being attracted to Frum Tzniuzdike women is very a common form of lusting.

Looking at women for the sake of pleasure, let it be Jews or non Jews, Frum or non Frum, tichel/seamed tight it doesn't matter, lust is poison.

One idea that might help you is to stop making it your goal to not gaze at any women in the street. You can start with the three second rule - not to stare for more than three seconds and no second looks. Much less pressure. You can't control who walks in the street but you can control second looks and what you keep on looking at for more than three seconds.

Another idea to help stop objectifying people, is to think about the fact that she is a human being with feelings, problems, bills to pay. So Daven for them. Ask Hashem to bless them...

By praying for her that she have a pleasant day, etc. your brain stops objectifying her.

Are you askin' them for directions?

Are you inquirin' from them where they shop for those seamed-tights?

Are you checkin' them out as you offer to help with their bags?

Have you ever been slapped?

Godspeed

Tightsology? I will be awake and waiting till the wee hours of the morning for this one...

Being slapped means "ge'chapped ah potch in poonim" (or wherever else you prefer)

All kidding aside, perhaps you are better off not sharing the specifics (including, albeit disappointingly, tightsology) as we all have enough of our own fantasies and are here to get help dealing with it, not indulging in them...

Welcome aboard! I hope you find the help you need...please find a safe person to speak to, as it does seem from your posts that you can chalilah get yourself into serious trouble!!.

How did they respond?

Do you know who they are? (you might need to make amends with them one day when you do step 8 & 9)

Yes indeed. I don't think you're looking to have your face on the front page of the Williamsburg Daily Tribune with an article describing your escapades.

Help exists . Go get it
