Listen up buddy unless you're looking to wear a pair of tights yourself I suggest you stay far far away from tightsolgy. Also breaking and entering to steal tights will get you labeled as a sex offender in the Williamsburg Daily Tribune, The New York Post and Associated Press so yeah good going on that one. You know what they do to sex offenders in prison right? So yeah get your head out of your tuches and get some help starting with the people mentioned above. Today without a second to spare. Have a nice day

How did they respond?

Do you know who they are? (you might need to make amends with them one day when you do step 8 & 9)

Unfortunately I know who they are & here comes my big secret I even stole into my biggest crush's home a few times (definitely when she was not home) & I know her phone number unfortunately (I also made to her a lot of phoney calls)

try this method,

why so sneaky? dont be a pussy cat,

call her, and say whose calling (????? ????),and tell her your feelings.

ring the bell when shes home and ask for her.

see what the her response will be.

it might cure you

crush it babe!

The problem is, Gummy Bear, that I thanked your post BEFORE you edited it to contain the foul, horrible street language.

Unfortunately there is no unlike Button.

But let my point stand. Your point was cute before, not now with the silly street talk.

Cande, I thanked your post before you edited it to add some questionable language, but it was brought to my attention that maybe you didn't mean to use the p word in the context I thought you did, In any case, I would like to clarify, I appreciated your cute point, not so much the questionable language you later added after I thanked it, perhaps you don't chap the definition of the word you wrote.

I'm not judging foul language, I just feel that some words don't belong on GYE even if it's meant in a different context.

Best,

youknowwho

I hope you're kidding on the direct amends part. ("except when to do so would injure them or others" - In this case it is probably best to stay away.)

I wasn't kidding. My intention was to help him with "outcome thinking" ... And being that he might never be able to make amends as you wrote, this might be another deterrent of this negative behavior.
