

Thompson, with a 'P', as in psychology
Posted by thompson - 01 Jul 2024 18:22

Hello, dear brothers, fighting the good fight.

I'm Thompson, and I come in peace - I don't bite.

I've tried many times to quit, and every time fell flat on my face prematurely.

By now, many porn sites have my email address stored (hopefully) securely.

So I figured, what harm can it do if I attempt to kick this via another anonymous online account -

Resembling the others - all of which only in an incognito window do I mount.

I'm now on day three in my quest toward a clean life,

I pray to our heavenly father that this time, I should get there without much strife.

Amen

As an aside, some people are born to remain in a tunnel.

The question is what you make of it?

Do you want to keep on fighting to find the light. Go ahead keep at it. Did you hear the story of one of the hostages that was released recently, how she managed to boost the spirit of those who were with her, despite the darkness?

What I'm saying is, is that acceptance can go along way. I'm not totally discounting trying to up your game.

KOT(with a Th)

The only one that I'm aware of who was born to remain in a tunnel is Bane. He was there for so long that by the time he saw the light, it was nothing but bothersome.

As for the rest of us, well, you might be right; I have no way of knowing the validity of your statement.

My problem with the darkness isn't being there. What pains me (at times) is how it negatively impacts my wife and children. This creates more darkness, and the cycle continues.

True, acceptance is the best antidote, but that's where I'm stuck right now.

Day 23 check-in.

Check.

Yesterday was a freakin nightmare. I'm glad it's not yesterday anymore. (Was it ever?)

Thank you, fellow GYE patron (you know who you are), for allowing me to air my dirty grievances to you. And a special thanks for not offering canned chizuk quotes and over-the-counter solutions.

Are you me?

Or is there more than one person living the nightmare!

BH my urges so far have been ok and I'm 'coasting along' but the other stuff has been hell on earth!

Cryin right along with you brotha!

In one of our happier moments (sarcasm) my wife geniusly observed, "if you get it cut off, it will solve all our intimacy issues"

They don't prepare you for this stuff in chosson classes!

I'm not you. Not by a long shot.

For instance, I'm not crying, at least not at the moment. I'm not sure whom you're crying with, check the closets for crying skeletons.

I hope that was convincing enough for you, sire.

You coulda just inserted a comma to show off while remaining subtle (which would be a double show-off).

I would bet that it wouldn't do much to help. Would just add a lot of shame, pain, and generally weird emotions to the existing toxic stew. Though I'm curious to find out.

Google says John and Lorena Bobbitt got divorced in the end.

Their issues were significantly greater than what you call generally weird emotions...

As Jake said, "Isn't it pretty to think so?"
