

Clean but not healed

Posted by heyyou - 16 Jul 2024 19:00

Hi all my name is I'm a chasidishe yingerman from Brooklyn, age 24 and here's my story.

Ever since my body matured (at about age 14) I've been suffering from masterbation, Thankfully I did not have access to porn, although I did sometimes get access to pictures of immodest women etc which have been a real trigger, but mostly it was just S*X Fantasy in bed which led to masterbation.

As the years past by the fantasy was getting more and more severe based on what I saw and learned about women and s*x.

As most here probably understand, I lived my life full of guilt and alone, with the heavy wait of a massive secret on my shoulders always scared that it will somehow leak out, when a rosh yeshive once pressed me to the wall if something going on, I just brushed it away by saying I have ?????? (bad thoughts), and he just told me to think about learning etc, but it didn't help much.

Thankfully I was still able to be present in yeshiva as a good boy, and learned the most I can, which led that at the age of 18 I got engaged to a great girl and then got Married B"H, now at 24 I'm very haply married with 3 kids Ke"h.

Just like everyone I thought that getting married will solve all my problems, and it did, but for just a few months. As a free married man things got worse in some sense, I got access to porn a few times, although it did a lot of damage it was not any permanent access thing. but the masterbation and fantasy started again, but this time even worse, as a married man i knew much more, as a married man, just those few times seeing porn was enough to not be happy enough with my wife (in terms of s*x), even though my wife did whatever she needed to, but since porn is fake, the real will never be as good...

This held on for a few years until Jan of 2023, my wife confronted me that she knows I'm masterbating, and that if I do it on my own why do I need her... I was shocked and broken by her saying it, and after a long hard conversation i told her everything that I'm suffering that I never told anyone before. She was very good about it, telling me that she'll stand by my side whatever I need.

I then found GYE took the first 3 lessons on Flight to freedom but it wasn't needed, My wife confronting me was enough to make me stop masterbating, that I'm clean till today.

Victory! Right? over a year and clean.

But, For the first year I'd say, it was victory, but as time is progressing, things are starting to fall apart, my urges are starting to get stronger, I'm starting to fantasize again, (up until masterbating, as I'm clean) and I'm looking for that enjoyment again, I have a different life in my head that's not letting me live.

I look for photos and clips of immodest women, I find every loophole hole in my filter to do that, and it's only getting worse. even basic things like holding my 4 year old daughter on my lap will trigger me, and I'm constantly living in a fear that the person living in my brain, which that person's number 1 objective is to have s*x with some p*rn star or model, will act out in real life. or to make it more simple I'll fall again after so long clean.

1 of the main things that made me realize that I'm not healed, was an email that GYE sent of someone's life story and he mentioned Chat-lines. I never called one of those but it triggered me so badly that I almost Googled it and called, Thank Hashem I was able to hold myself back.

Now I live a life I hate, finding every opportunity to calm my urges by watching bad stuff (the fine line till porn) and fantasizing.

I'm here to take advice on how to really heal, I should be able to sit by my computer and not be scared I'll fly away somewhere, being able to be clean even without my wife watching on me. being able to walk on the street without laying eyes on every woman (yes, even the ugly ones). etc etc awaiting the responses of everyone here

=====

Re: Clean but not healed

Posted by heyyou - 17 Jul 2024 19:27

yidddd wrote on 17 Jul 2024 01:02:

So hard.

I can identify with looking for the loophole on my filter; I am on my 4th filter. With each one, I spend a few months breaking through, trying to block the breakthroughs, then finding some excuse to tell my wife "I think this one is slowing my computer, lets switch". But then finding the loopholes in the next one...

Yes filters are somewhat useless for techy people. although it makes it much harder to fall, and actual porn is very hard to find, it's still findable.

That's why sometimes we have to change the person, not the filter!

=====

Re: Clean but not healed

Posted by heyyou - 17 Jul 2024 19:30

amevakesh wrote on 17 Jul 2024 15:28:

First of all, welcome to the forums. Wow! One and a half years of not acting out is impressive. But what I find even more impressive is that you're hitting rock bottom while still on top. Yours is classic story which unfortunately doesn't usually end the way yours will. It usually goes something like this. Exposed to P&M as a Bachur, gets married, swears it off with intention never to repeat, successful for a few months or a year or two, relapse, is caught by wife (or not), swears it off again, is successful for some time, but eventually falls back to where he was in the beginning. Amazing that you are reaching out before the fall that usually comes for people that haven't learnt how to internally heal.

By coming here to GYE you will learn how to fight this beast smarter not harder. You've been eating yourself up for things that are probably not even really your fault. There are so many people here that can help you out with sound advice that will help you heal and recover. The YH thrives on isolating you from the rest of the world, making you think that you're the only one that deals with these issues. You are not alone. There are many holy people with genuine ???? ???? that are willing to help you out, over the phone or in person. They will care for you, will never judge you or think you're weird, they will understand you and most importantly they will become your friend. They have been where you are right now, and look back at that ????? in their life as a thing of the past. That doesn't mean that they're done with the YH, he will never go away, but they have him in a place where they control him and not vice versa. It is a powerful feeling that infuses one with serenity and ????? ???? and gives one the ability to focus on the real things going on in your life. Your wife, children, working out issues (yes, there will still be issues, but you will be able to work on them with a clear mind). You can recover from all these unwanted urges and voices in your head.

One of the many people you might want to reach out to goes by the name HHM. He has helped hundreds of people successfully heal internally, and given them tools that really help. There are others as well, but he is a great place to start. Hatzlacha Rabbah on your journey of changing yourself from one who is valiantly fighting the YH by white knuckling through the challenges he throws your way, to one who knows how to successfully and calmly manage the urges which will decrease in severity and frequency as time goes on.

Thanks for the kind and wise words.

Although I didn't fall in terms of M i Did somewhat fall in terms of what my eyes saw and that was enough to bring me (back) here

=====

Re: Clean but not healed

Posted by hey you - 17 Jul 2024 19:35

proudyungerman wrote on 17 Jul 2024 18:13:

Couldn't agree more!

I'll only add that HHM - Hashem Help Me - is reachable at michelgelnert@gmail.com

Please, I beg you, get in touch with him. It will save you a tremendous amount of ???? ???, and change your life for the good!

Welcome aboard!!

Seems like he helped you a lot, I'll reach out to him Beh"s

=====

=====