

something that snaps me out sometimes..

Posted by looktoshamayim - 29 Mar 2011 22:00

I heard this from a reliable source, if it's triggering please remove it.

As you know, most people involved in porn aren't trying to fight it. They are shameless and desperate. (I once tried reading reviews of things which tempted me in hopes it would turn me off, eventually it backfired). And as most of us know, the longer someone stays in it, the more disgusting their needs become.

How bad? There's such a thing as holocaust porn.

Do we want to have any connection with such an industry?

Thinking about this (only briefly) has helped me, I'm hoping it will help others as well.

=====
=====