CRITERIA FOR PORNOGRAPHY ADDICTION

- Recurrent failure to resist impulses to view pornography
- More extensive/longer viewing of pornography than intended
- Ongoing, but unsuccessful, efforts to stop, reduce, or control behavior
- Inordinate amount of time spent obtaining pornography, viewing pornography, and/or being sexual—either through masturbation, or with another person or object, or recovering from sexual experiences
- Feeling preoccupied with fantasy, sexualized thoughts, and/or preparatory activities

- Viewing pornography takes significant time away from obligations: occupational, academic, domestic, or social

- Continuation of behavior despite consequences

- Tolerance—more frequent or intense pornography is needed over time to obtain the desired result

- Deliberately limiting social, occupational, or recreational activities in order to keep time open for finding and viewing pornography

- Distress, restlessness, or irritability if unable to view pornography (withdrawal)
 - a. dizziness

 - b. body aches

 - c. headaches

 - d. sleeplessness

 - e. restlessness

 - f. anxiety

g. mood swings

h. depression

The criteria listed above are the most common signs to look for in assessing a pornography addiction. If pornography addiction behaviors parallel sexual addiction, then a minimum of three of the above ten are needed for a pornography addiction to be considered present. Dr. Carnes has found that most sex addicts have five signs, while over 50 percent have seven.²
