

A little ditty

Posted by aa1977 - 29 Aug 2012 10:05

---

I'm finding that the only safe place for my eyes when i'm walking in the streets (even in some of the "frummet" parts of Jerusalem!) is on the 30-60 cm of pavement in front of me. Look outside of that tiny area and my radar starts picking up on and focusing me on all the sights.

I have to say that i'd let my eyes be hefker for quite a while now. All it brought me to was a deep depression. Looking at the pavement may seem depressing, but i know for sure that looking around just pulls me way way down. Can i walk around for the rest of my life just looking at the drab grey pavement? If i think about it like this, i'm sure not. But i can manage one day at a time. Just for today.

Walking along thinking of this, i remembered a tune from my childhood,

"???? ?????"

?? ?????"

?? ????????"

???,???? ?????"

And then i thought of a more grown up version:

????? ?????"

???? ? ?????"

?? ?????? ??????"

???,???? ?????"

Or how about,

????? ?????

????? ?? ?????

?? ???? ?????

???,???? ?????

Why am telling you nursery rhymes? I don't know myself. I just thought i'd share it. Perhaps we can make a bumper sticker from it!

=====
====