

I AM A NON ADDICT

Posted by Markz - 15 Feb 2017 03:50

Warning: Spoiler!

Click on the spoiler for interesting info

I have a reputation to say things how they are, and I don't intend ruining that

The truth will stand forever

We don't need 2 sections for addicts and non addicts, and if there would be, I'd reside on the addict section although I'm a non addict

We need 2 sections

- 1) Guys that want to break free on GYE terms
- 2) Guys that want to do so on their own terms and conditions

I can identify the few members that wish to reside on section 2, and I wish them well.

Cut it out this non addict business

If I would act out every 2 months and could not physically stop, I'd consider myself an addict

Is gye gonna have an addict test before being accepted to each forum?

I assure you not. Then who are we kidding?

Ourselves

When will we grow up?

Never

Addict or not I would never want two forums. How can I miss out on all the Wisdom, What's ups and Wisecracks from Moreinu Maran Markz. Never.

Chill guys I emailed guard and he said that they are only splitting the tools not the forums

(whatever that means)

Though in todays email they said the website.....

~~I~~ heard he has a split personality

Are they actually splitting the tools? Oh lord. I doubt anyone has any idea if they are an addict when they come to GYE. And for one to pigeonhole himself into either box is not very helpful.

Agreed

So I guess we have work to do though seems there is already a thread about this

But are they actually splitting it?

They dare not, because your thread will be changed to "half steps" and you'll have to change your name to Shlomo12

How about we chill about this whole talk and get on with life

Gnite

I believe I and others said more than enough on this thread. Please start from page 1

I may have another idea.

Perhaps insert a setting in where the creator of the thread only allows certain users to see it and if it is a new user then there should be a choice for example that only platinum borders can see it.

The benefits would be as follows:

1. No trollers or stupid heads are putting in there crooked opinions.
2. The creator can be more honest with his posts and doesn't have to worry about some shmow reading it.

Another great idea

But we first need to create a problem

Do you know what the problem is, so that we can determine the best solution?

I firmly believe it's not a "Addict" vs "Non Addict" problem

IMHO what I gathered from Reb HHM It's a problem of levels of listening aptitude

Some guys need more time than others

Ok - I got it!

NOW I SEE A PROBLEM

SOLUTION?

So we need a separate website called

"GYE FRESHMAN"

Who decides who gets access, and who graduates?

There's other questions...

Bigger question is what is wrong with gye as it is?

If there's someone that needs calling out, why don't we do so today, as you'll have to do on the "Freshman" website regularly...

Problem number 1.

Some people say the wrong thing at the wrong time to the person seeking help.

2. If you are not honest about yourself then you can't get help.

Couldn't have said it better. There are some people which, (I know I can get into trouble for calling them that), are IMHO immature. They come on to the site, expecting someone to provide them a quick ready to use solution to get rid of IT. Half the times they cannot define what they mean by "IT".

They don't expect to walk in to a suit store and walk out 2 minutes later, with a custom made suit fitted to their size. However they somehow expect GYE to have the solution right away, so that they can continue on with their life. Perhaps even so that they can continue lusting...

This is a life changing program and needs lots of work to even get started. You have to let thoughts settle in, before you even figure out what size suit you are. Afterwards you can start the modifications, and customizations.

It personally took me 4 years of just lurking on the site without getting really involved to get to brutally know myself and what works for me.

At the most, I would recommend a disclaimer: "If you do not feel comfortable with any idea suggested to you, Please contact an experienced person (perhaps Dov) to discuss it through before implementing."
