

Fifty years

Last week I gathered up the large collection of "schmutz" that I began accumulating about fifty years ago, and bundled it into trash bags for disposal. I also deleted the schmutz on my computer.

As a Baal Teshuvah, this may be the last and hardest step I've taken toward full observance of the mitzvot.

My motivation was I'm facing a life crisis that I don't think I can overcome on my own. By becoming "clean", maybe Hashem will have pity on me and give me peace.

Congratulations.

This looks like a unix command, does the code for this forum fork and run arbitrary commands?

*echo Days clean: $(( $(date +%s) - $(date --date="2018-05-31" +%s) )/(60*60*24) ))*

It is a unix command. The forum doesn't run arbitrary code. That would've opened the site up to a host of issues in regards to security.

Exactly. So why do you need that in your signature?

Exactly. So why do you need that in your signature?

1. It's a convenient place to keep it for my own reference.

2. It's symbolic.

Ok. I thought it was supposed to be executed and it wasn't ...

Mazel tov! Keep it up. Keep in mind that 90 is not a magic number and on day 91 we must watch out for triggers too!

That reminds me of one of the times I quit smoking. For months, I would smoke in my dreams. I felt, but it turned out to be a dream. When I woke, I was still clean (97 days). I would even look forward to going to bed, so that I could "dream-smoke".

That's a cause for celebration. Even your subconscious was unable to dirty you. What an awesome feeling of relief you must have had upon awakening. You were finally able to "watch from outside" and not be part of it. L'chaim to you!

I was thinking today that it's fortunate that I'm not attracted to cats. My cats often look like they're posing for a porn video.

I didn't enjoy that one, sorry.

Dovid824, I'm looking at your posts and wondering if I wrote them in my sleep! My education was in math, my background is in computer programming, but on the iSeries (AS400) which does not have abundant jobs at all, and have had to take lower paying jobs. Right now I am working at a temp job on a project with Excel spreadsheets. My job is about to end in December, and as it would happen, I have arranged to become a live-in for developmentally-disabled adults if I don't find something between now and when my assignment ends. My family is all spread out throughout the states, and I live near none of them.

And I have few friends, but they are "remnants" of my "gay life": if I cut every gay person off that

I know, I would have no friends at all. I would just have friendly coworkers. But even as it is, those friends are all friends-by-phone.

KOMT

What does KOMT mean?

A few days ago I was in a dark basement with no way out, except a door leading to a darker subbasement. I tried repeatedly to open the door, but Hashem wouldn't let me. Then I discovered a stairway that led me out of the basement back into the sunlight.

I feel that Hashem has been testing me. I'm not sure when the test started, possibly years ago.

But I think I was presented with a critical test a few days ago, and passed it. As a reward, He's giving me a push in the right direction.

I'm still facing challenges, but I have a plan now, and am hopeful of succeeding.
