

for singles only.

Posted by doorknob - 24 Jan 2017 03:19

Here I would like this thread to be mostly for orthodox single men.

I feel the single has a greater challenge then married men do.

The single does not engage in sex and therefore has a good excuse to look at forbidden pictures or videos.

I.e. as an outlet for his desires.

All this is destructive of course.

But misery loves company so single guys I want to hear from you.

=====
=====

Re: for singles only.

Posted by Markz - 24 Jan 2017 04:11

guardyoureyes.com/forum/1-Break-Free/72260-singles---were-in-a-different-boat

=====
=====

Re: For Singles Only!

Posted by Shlomo24 - 24 Jan 2017 04:19

Hey man, single guy here. What's on your mind?

=====
=====

Re: For Singles Only!

Posted by Singularity - 24 Jan 2017 07:27

When I'm all caught up in lusting, I feel single. Completely forget my wife exists :)

=====
=====

====

Re: For Singles Only!

Posted by Shlomo24 - 26 Jan 2017 01:59

Singularity wrote on 24 Jan 2017 07:27:

When I'm all caught up in lusting, I feel single. Completely forget my wife exists :)

=====
====

Re: For Singles Only!

Posted by Singularity - 26 Jan 2017 08:00

Shlomo24 wrote on 26 Jan 2017 01:59:

Singularity wrote on 24 Jan 2017 07:27:

Doesn't count.

When I'm all caught up in lusting, I feel single. Completely forget my wife exists :)

Bah!

Tho my remez is that don't think married life is easier in terms of this problem. It may be more destructive. Why?

1. Not just you anymore. You're taking 'em all down with you.
2. At least I know porn and masturbation are assur. But, um, mind-gaming my wife and demanding sex every few days as a permissible outlet will just feed my lust more and more without my even knowing it.

b'Sha'ah Tovah. All of youse.

=====
=====

Re: For Singles Only!
Posted by Shlomo24 - 26 Jan 2017 15:42

I make joke. You understand, right?

=====
=====

Re: For Singles Only!
Posted by 360gye - 26 Jan 2017 16:48

Hey,

I'm another single orthodox guy and would love to hear what's going on?

=====
=====

Re: for singles only.

Posted by stillgoing - 26 Jan 2017 19:37

doorknob wrote on 24 Jan 2017 03:19:

Here I would like this thread to be mostly for orthodox single men.

I feel the single has a greater challenge than married men do.

The single does not engage in sex and therefore has a good excuse to look at forbidden pictures or videos.

I.e. as an outlet for his desires.

All this is destructive of course.

But misery loves company so single guys I want to hear from you.

Hi Door,

Since I'm not suppose to post here, I'll be quick.

I can understand why you'd think that. Some people have the impression that married folks have a willing partner to fulfill their desires whenever they want (or at least sometimes). My firm belief based on my experience (and I think that this is the first time here that I've written 'firm belief') is that when we are lusting, no upstanding moral women will ever be enough for us! When we work on ourselves and get to the point that we are not lusting, then it also doesn't matter if one is married or not (from a lust perspective).

Our details may be different, but we are fighting the same fight.

=====
=====

Re: for singles only.

Posted by cordnoy - 26 Jan 2017 19:41

stillgoing wrote on 26 Jan 2017 19:37:

doorknob wrote on 24 Jan 2017 03:19:

Here I would like this thread to be mostly for orthodox single men.

I feel the single has a greater challenge then married men do.

The single does not engage in sex and therefore has a good excuse to look at forbidden pictures or videos.

I.e. as an outlet for his desires.

All this is destructive of course.

But misery loves company so single guys I want to hear from you.

Hi Door,

Since I'm not suppose to post here, I'll be quick.

I can understand why you'd think that. Some people have the impression that married folks have a willing partner to fulfill their desires whenever they want (or at least sometimes). My firm belief based on my experience (and I think that this is the first time here that I've written 'firm belief') is that when we are lusting, no upstanding moral women will ever be enough for us! When we work on ourselves and get to the point that we are not lusting, then it also doesn't matter if one is married or not (from a lust perspective).

Our details may be different, but we are fighting the same fight.

You are correct, but they probably won't understand it....just like i/we didn't.

=====
====

Re: for singles only.

Posted by mirror - 26 Jan 2017 19:52

But how can you say that having kosher intimacy does not help his struggle? Doesn't it give him a kosher outlet?

=====

====

Re: for singles only.
Posted by stillgoing - 26 Jan 2017 19:58

mirror wrote on 26 Jan 2017 19:52:

But how can you say that having kosher intimacy does not help his struggle? Doesn't it give him a kosher outlet?

Maybe it is a good outlet for a regular run of the mill guy, but for somebody who is already struggling with lust, pics, videos etc, 'kosher' intimacy can make the struggle harder.

For someone struggling with this (If you're not, then why are you on this site), the battle is not finding a 'kosher' outlet. It will never work. The battle is changing our mindsets and habits to be 'kosher'. If we can do that, the outlets won't a problem anymore.

=====
====

Re: for singles only.
Posted by Markz - 26 Jan 2017 20:25

mirror wrote on 26 Jan 2017 19:52:

But how can you say that having kosher intimacy does not help his struggle? Doesn't it give him a kosher outlet?

It gives him a kosher faucet

=====
====

Re: for singles only.

Posted by Watson - 26 Jan 2017 20:31

In my experience and from what I've heard from the hundreds of married lusters I've spoken to, getting married does not solve this issue. Most of us found that it actually made this issue much much much harder. Not that being married isn't wonderful, but it doesn't help this issue.

=====
=====

Re: for singles only.

Posted by GrowStrong - 26 Jan 2017 21:29

Markz wrote on 26 Jan 2017 20:25:

mirror wrote on 26 Jan 2017 19:52:

But how can you say that having kosher intimacy does not help his struggle? Doesn't it give him a kosher outlet?

It gives him a kosher faucet

I would suggest remaining single if its an 'outlet' one needs.

=====
=====