

They think they understand us -- they don't!

Posted by boobusy - 08 May 2013 23:42

---

The rabbis in shul and yeshivos keep putting us down for falling for the yestzer hora. They can't imagine how strong the Y"H is. At least for me. I work on a pc all day in small office and no one can see my screen. Many times I sneak a peak or stay in the office alone after hours. Late night if I can't fall asleep I'll go downstairs and watch p*rn and m*.

I tried many times to commit to stopping. I tried the programs. I even once called a therapist anonymously for an hour. I once called a rov in a different town and explained my situation with him, All he told me was to quit my job.

I love my local rov but I'll never discuss it with him.

The rabbis keep putting us down. I'm now to this site and I don't think I'm alone in my opinion.

Lakewood is having an asifa tomorrow. I spoke with someone in TAG and they said it is to strengthen their commitment to who ever does not have a filter, a lock and an "ishur(?)" their kids are bounced out of school.

Did anyone ever give the rabbi a computer, internet and a closed room for an hour? How dare they make it so simple. I'm not proud of my actions, but all I'm saying is, it's not easy.

Does anyone feel the same way I do?

=====

Re: They think they understand us -- they don't!

Posted by nitzotzeloki - 08 May 2013 23:59

---

i totally hear you but ummmm why is this in the just having fun section?

=====

Re: They think they understand us -- they don't!
Posted by boobusy - 09 May 2013 00:00

---

where should it be?

=====

Re: They think they understand us -- they don't!
Posted by nitzotzeloki - 09 May 2013 00:02

---

break free maybe. this part of the forum is for chilling out and goofing off the other parts are for the serious stuff.

=====

Re: They think they understand us -- they don't!
Posted by gibbor120 - 09 May 2013 00:05

---

Welcome BB, We have another BB here (Blind Beggar).

Why don't you start a new thread in the "Introduce Yourself" section. Then you can um... well introduce yourself.

We look forward to getting to know you better.

A couple of points.

I don't think anyone ever said that it was easy.

Why won't you tell your local rov?

=====
=====

Re: They think they understand us -- they don't!
Posted by boobusy - 09 May 2013 00:39

---

I will copy paste into Introduce yourself

=====
=====

Re: They think they understand us -- they don't!
Posted by Blind Beggar - 09 May 2013 10:06

---

Hi, Gibbor 120 and Boobusy!

=====
=====

Re: They think they understand us -- they don't!
Posted by gibbor120 - 09 May 2013 18:53

---

)

=====
=====

Re: They think they understand us -- they don't!
Posted by mr. emunah - 09 May 2013 23:43

---

boobusy wrote:

The rabbis in shul and yeshivos keep putting us down for falling for the yestzer hora. They can't imagine how strong the Y"H is. At least for me. I work on a pc all day in small office and no one can see my screen. Many times I sneak a peak or stay in the office alone after hours. Late night if I can't fall asleep I'll go downstairs and watch p*rn and m*.

I tried many times to commit to stopping. I tried the programs. I even once called a therapist anonymously for an hour. I once called a rov in a different town and explained my situation with him, All he told me was to quit my job.

I love my local rov but I'll never discuss it with him.

The rabbis keep putting us down. I'm now to this site and I don't think I'm alone in my opinion.

Lakewood is having an asifa tomorrow. I spoke with someone in TAG and they said it is to strengthen their commitment to who ever does not have a filter, a lock and an "ishur(?)" their kids are bounced out of school.

Did anyone ever give the rabbi a computer, internet and a closed room for an hour? How dare they make it so simple. I'm not proud of my actions, but all I'm saying is, it's not easy.

Does anyone feel the same way I do?

Hi Mr. Boo

Welcome! we're all in the same boat and Hashem will help us!

But we have to let him.

Whatver.. (i thought that sounded deep)

Any hoo in regard to Rabbis in rooms with locked doors and web access...

I think there might be a few of them on GYE!

It's takka a big yetzer horah, takah like a burning fire or a siren call.

Which is precisely why you'll never find a serious Rov calling people bad for being nichshol,

Rather what the fuss is about is recognizing the web for what it is and taking appropriate safegaurds....

Like if you can add a filter and you choose not to, then we have a problem.

(and even in regards to quitting your job, if that is the only way to get away from the shmutz, well as they say in French "a man's gotta do what a man's gotta do" I don't know how different this is to America in the early 19 hundreds, when very few yidden didn't work on shabbos...)

Join us in our March towards Moshiach!

=====