

Totally Unrelated Need to move

Posted by godhelp - 24 Oct 2014 22:08

Totally Unrelated

I live in BP I have no one here besides my Shull and my rebbie. i am somewhat chasidish and go a Shtrimel.

My landlord came up to me this week and told me he needs the house i was pretty happy in the house and did not pay alot for rent.

looking to move but i cant afford the rent they are asking these days $2400 so i am thinking of moving out of NYC, but it has to be driving distance from NYC since my wife has a great job here and is not interested in traveling a lot.

I am thinking of Staten island any body know something.

Please any advice wold be appreciated.

=====

=====

Re: Totally Unrelated Need to move

Posted by Gevura Shebyesod - 24 Oct 2014 23:26

Staten Island is part of nyc... Although housing is probably cheaper there than brooklyn.

Hatzlacha!

=====

=====

Re: Totally Unrelated Need to move

Posted by Gevura Shebyesod - 24 Oct 2014 23:26

Staten Island is part of nyc... Although housing is probably cheaper there than brooklyn.

Hatzlacha!

=====
=====

Re: Totally Unrelated Need to move
Posted by moish u.k. - 27 Oct 2014 18:09

We're probably not related...

but, have you considered a move to the U.K.?

=====
=====

Re: Totally Unrelated Need to move
Posted by Icebrush - 30 Apr 2015 09:47

It is the information that I was looking at the ground fit.

=====
=====

Re: Totally Unrelated Need to move
Posted by yiraishamaim - 30 Apr 2015 14:56

Many good community shuls there. Nice people - tolls though

Just remember everything is from Hashem - meshana makom meshana mazal

May the move bring you a fresh new beginning on your journey - Hatzlocho Rabo!

=====
=====

Re: Totally Unrelated Need to move

Posted by TriggerMeNot88 - 30 Apr 2015 19:27

Woodmere(has a great shul"Eish Kodesh" streimel wearing rav),rest of 5 towns, Monsey,
Passaic, Lakewood,

All traveling distance to NY

=====
=====