

The Grouchery: Haven for the Grumpily Disgruntled

Posted by youknowwho - 08 Mar 2024 15:01

Speaking to a few friends offline gave birth to this idea, it seems to be an urgent and immediate necessity.

Welcome to... The Grouchery: Haven for the Grumpily Disgruntled

This thread is a place where one can feel free to rant, vent and gripe.

It is a safe haven for negativity, sourness and blahness.

It is a place where one can be sure to find a healthy dose of demotivating advice. It is a place where any kind of positivity is strictly forbidden.

It is a place where you can vent about what a rotten day you're having and not worry that people will then reach out with concerned pm's/texts...cuz nobody really cares. And that's perfectly fine, why should anybody care?

Please Remember:

-No profanity (Sadly)

-No personal insults (Sadly)

- Absolutely no: Nice, positive, warm, loving, optimistic, motivational, supportive or inspiring posts. (Not sadly)

Enter at your own risk!

What the blazes is it with cleaning ladies? Why does my wife feel the need to clean before she comes?

Now, ours is sometimes sent by my shvigger, and lemme tell you, oysh. SHE decides where things go. For crying out loud, our hamper has two sections- one for undershirts, weekday and shabbos shirts and the like (otherwise known as the "whites bin"). The second section is for everything else. This one's known as the "colors bin". Well, guess who knows better than us? Yep. It's the far'shtunkenuh cleaning lady.

We have one of those swiffer mop thingys for when yours truly is feeling lazy, and a regular mop and pail for when he wants to do it right. Any guesses who gives a big, fat (pun intended- she's not a hottie) stink if she can't find the easy way out? Yep, you got it again!

The list goes on...

We were scheduled to have an evaluator come to our home this morning to get the baby approved for speech therapy. (He has some hearing loss- this is NOT what the Grouch is about) The evaluator is apparently a good friend of my shvigger, and we were informed/cautioned/warned that the state of cleanliness of our home would make it to the shvigger. Nu. Annoying, but shohn.

Last night, by the time I got home (close to 9:00) my wife was utterly zonked, and she asked if she could go to sleep while I clean up. I, being the star husband that I am, said "Sure, honey! Shluff gezunt!!". After trying to eat some cold chicken I started feeling quite unwell. Really wanted to take it easy, but I'd given my word! So, I cleaned. And I tidied. Swept. The whole 9 yards. I was feeling so shvach that I had to take two mini naps. (Yes, at night.) By the time I was finished (around 12:00), I was so weak I had to daven in the house and stumble off to bed.

P.S. it snowed. All of under 2 inches. (Yes, it's like I won a few cents in the lottery yet again)
The evaluator said she's coming back next week, so I'll need to get the house spotless all over again!!!

Warning: Spoiler!

The idea of chol hamoed trips is the product of the tortured mind of a sadomasochist.

Who is currently bound in leather straps by the person that invented chanukah parties.

I will take your grouch and one-up it.

Games at family Chanukah parties. OMG. Why??????

I come to eat some latkes, smile at the aunt's and uncles I don't know, collect a little envelope from Bubby, and go home. There's no need to drag it out for four hours while someone elses kid's are killing each other, then an argument starts about politics or some other exciting topic.

Wrap it up in 90 minutes and let us get on with our lives. (I'm writing this in a screaming voice, if you can't tell)

Counterpoint: Why doesn't my wife feel the need to clean? How is a once-a-week cleaning lady enough?! Shortly after she's done, the house looks like the emaciated cows from Pharaoh's dream - AFTER cannibalizing. V'Lo Nodah.

Yeah, preach away to the choir, baby.

“Honey, do you really think I could clean? Did you even listen to me telling you about my day? How difficult the kids were, dealing with my mother, with YOUR mother, clients...”

As if I'd validate these puny excuses...

I will YELL and SHOUT at this stupid, dumb, pathetic, retarded, ridiculous, idiotic, ludicrous, government insurance website.

One would think that dealing with a computer would be better then dealing with a programmed human being on the phone, but no, the government has taken care that you get the full experience even whilst using your computer. AAAARRRRRRGGGGHHHH!!!

me. Got up to the green circle - healthy activities. Turns out I have no healthy activities.

Hero!

Did you try joining a Vaad?
