

The Grouchery: Haven for the Grumpily Disgruntled

Speaking to a few friends offline gave birth to this idea, it seems to be an urgent and immediate necessity.

Welcome to...The Grouchery: Haven for the Grumpily Disgruntled

This thread is a place where one can feel free to rant, vent and gripe.

It is a safe haven for negativity, sourness and blahness.

It is a place where one can be sure to find a healthy dose of demotivating advice. It is a place where any kind of positivity is strictly forbidden.

It is a place where you can vent about what a rotten day you're having and not worry that people will then reach out with concerned pm's/texts...cuz nobody really cares. And that's perfectly fine, why should anybody care?

Please Remember:

-No profanity (Sadly)

-No personal insults (Sadly)

- Absolutely no: Nice, positive, warm, loving, optimistic, motivational, supportive or inspiring posts. (Not sadly)

Enter at your own risk!

Peach is coming!! In two weeks!!!

We haven't even started cleaning yet!!!! My car is filthy!!!! Haven't booked a car cleaning service yet for no good reason at all!!!!!!

#FamilyDrama!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Everything in this post sounds just about average.

Just about average??!!

What kind of fineshmecker can afford a car cleaning service?!

I haven't started cleaning either, but I'm not grouching. No, baruch hashem I can't afford a house so it's very easy to clean my tiny apartment despite all my amazing beautiful kinderlach I am so #BLESSED with tracking crumbs literally everywhere.

I sit corrected. (I'd say "stand", but I'm sitting when writing this Grouch.) The kids get stuff everywhere. I'd say "they get crumbs everywhere", but those aren't really an issue, per say.

We got a car a few weeks ago, and already have to de-???-afy it.

Oh, and did I mention life hasn't paused?

Oh. So that's how you're playing it, eh?

And since did a Grouch have to be above "average" to be posted?

Why oh why oh why

Is my wife's cell phone ALWAYS on somewhere between zero and 3% battery.

It's like she doesn't know about chargers.

When I get home, I plug it in, it gets all the way up to 3% and then she takes it out. A few minutes later I'll see it either dead or on 1% RIGHT NEXT TO THE CHARGER.

FOR THE LOVE OF GOD, JUST PLUG IT IN.

yep same here

this may not be appropriate for the grouchery, but after years and years of it i have given up i guess that i also do some things that annoy her and i dont change, probably substantially worse than a chronically nearly dead cellphone

Alex if you have come to terms with your wife's annoying habits, you don't belong on the grouchery thread. Sorry.

I am the official plugger inner in my house, if I dont plug it in it will die.

But she has me there, cuz sometimes I need to call her, so I plug it in for my sake.

my 9 y/o son's alarm decided to go off in the middle of the night and he slept right through it, but unfortunately I didn't. by the way he has never used this alarm and claimed this morning that he doesn't know how to set it. time to go sleep walk through my day.

I feel like I can handle one out of three of pesach cleaning, my wife, and my kids these days.

If I must give a more concrete grouch. My (too old for this bs) kid had three accidents in two days. I'm at the point of just throwing stuff out so I don't have to clean more things.

I wish it would take an alarm clock to wake me up in middle of the night and not stress

I'm loving these grouches even though loving grouching is completely against the rules. We have to hate the grouching. With a passion. But not dare cross the line by enjoying it. You have to hate loving it and love to hate it.

My son, who has never once woken up from his alarm clock, or has never used it to actually wake himself up, regularly manages to set it for 5am, and particularly on shabbos morning. And it's set to the max volume and it's one of those that goes on forever!

Which has led me to taking all my kids by the hand every Friday afternoon and double triple checking that every alarm in the house is switched off for shabbos. And of course they always tell me that they already turned it off.
