Transplanting post from a different thread - kids say hilarious things, let's share them with each other! I'll go first.

grade school son comes out of bath

Son: "I'm freezing!"

Me: So get dressed

Son: but I'm holding something, how can I get dressed if my hands are full?

Me: put your stuff on the floor and then get dressed.

Son: but how will I know where I left my stuff in the morning?

Me: put it in its place

Son: I don't know where to put it

Me: don't you have a box for all your stuff?

Son: yes, but i usually don't put anything there.

Me: So start putting your stuff there

Son: but since I do not usually put my stuff there I won't think to look there.

Me: so how do you usually find your stuff in the morning?

Son: I usually lose my stuff until someone finds it (usually me or his mommy stepping on it or throwing it out...)

Me: maybe start putting your stuff where it goes and then you will know where it is

Son: I think I'll just leave it under my pillow. That's where i leave my kippa.

Me: ok then. goodnight, love you.

My son wanted to play a game with his cousin, and I asked them to please clean up a bit first to make space.

I went to assess how much tidying up was needed, and my son says to me: "just make it look like it's cleaned up".

Then he turned around to find out that it wasn't his cousin who'd walked up behind him.

Son: "Tatty is medicating."

Wife: "What?"

Son: "Idonno, he's doing medication or something."

Me: Focusing on my breath just got infinitely harder.

Son, hopefully, you'll never get to understand this firsthand. I'm doing this now precisely so I don't desire to self-medicate later.

I had been drinking from a can of seltzer (Polar- no, this is not a paid advertisement) using a straw, because every beverage tastes better through a straw. My 16-month-old (I think that's his "age". I figure if I can't keep track of my own age, I'm not held responsible for my kids') sees me and naturally wants whatever Totty is having. And however.

I give it to him, and he downs it like a man. It took a few seconds, but quite expectedly, he lets out a massive belch. It gave me such nachas.

Warning: Spoiler!

Son: Ma what's this new place card we have on our table?

Mother: It's called "Aderaba" it tells us not to speak Lashon Hara by the Shabbos table.

Son: Oh! So that means we are allowed to speak Lashon Hara during the week?!

Seeing as the baby has quite the set of lungs, and is very expressive when he doesn't get what he wants/is uncomfortable, my wife (hoping to hold off his screaming session for even a bit,) started "~~singing~~" a jingle (should the verb be "jingling"? Yes.) jingling a jingle, the words being "we're gonna change your diaper, ba-dum-bum, bu-dum Ba-dum".

My older son finds it quite funny that she ends up saying something that sounds very similar to "bottom". Especially because she's dealing with the baby's bottom.
