Agree to stop being maniacs, and just spell it "Wensday".

Which "genius" decided to throw the "d" and "e" into "Wednesday"???

Also, I hear the idea that a ???? gets an ???? from ???? davening for the amud. Maybe. Sometimes.

BUT. There are times (and/or people) that they could give an even bigger ???? by having somebody e/se daven- and even have the ???? in mind! I mean, why should the entire ???? suffer because a guy (he could even be a sweetie, btw) who has no vocal talents, has yahrtzeit???

Publicly admit how much of our childhood davening/benching songs are still running through our heads every time we Daven/bench.

Abbreviating porn and masturbation as p & m. I honestly think it just perpetuates the stigma attached to said stuff.

They're things. They're bad things. They're bad things that many people struggle with. It's kinda (mostly?) coming out from under the rug, and if we can't name the demons, it makes it that much harder to deal with them.

Openly show our love for the works of R' Shmuel Kunda, ???.

I don't know who decided that his tapes (yes, I call them tapes. That's how I grew up [fine, never really grew up. More like in my early years of life], and so it shall remain. But I digress) were "for children", but that is complete and utter narishkeit. The more I listen to his stuff, the more I appreciate the sheer brilliance involved (putting aside the fact that he was a pioneer in the whole industry of storytelling and the like). His beautiful, simple compositions. Fantastic rhymes. Fascinating storylines. And of course, the voices and characters. Powerful messages. The list could go on and on.

Make it a standard to eat the kids menu by weddings. Like who really enjoys that chicken and some strings next to it? Not to mention the pickles and coleslaw!

I like both. The adult and kids menu. And I am the guy that pounds the pickles and cole slaw Pretty crazy story over there in your spoiler!

And the part that ticks me off the most is that, a few weeks before the wedding, my Shvigger asked if I had any specific requests.

I said "Yes, please make sure I get a kids meal for the main course".

She said "no need to plan that ahead of time, they'll for sure have!"

P.S...
