"vrrrrrrrrreouashiiiiiiiiiszcfretyyyy" What part of that don't you understand?

Warning: Spoiler!

I had a very nice chat with a friend just now, he pops up: So, how's the girl? [He, of course was referring to my post before shabbos.]

My reply: It's RAINING! Did you know that in it rains all summer!?

I call this "The What O'Clock Method" [WOCOM], WOCOM is delineated or set forth in Alice in Wonderland Chapter Five: 'Only it is so very lonely here!' Alice said in a melancholy voice; and, at the thought of her loneliness, two large tears came rolling down her cheeks.

'Oh, don't go on like that!' cried the poor Queen, wringing her hands in despair. 'Consider what a great girl you are. Consider what a long way you've come to-day. Consider what o'clock it is. Consider anything, only don't cry!'

Warning: Spoiler!

It's a good method.

let me guess, it went something like this, woke up tired cause of slichos, had a want and don't want list. called a friend in EY and learned with him until senior called in. then got some friends over all the way from BB.

That's all I can guess for now, what did I miss?

How do know when TZ is on a long distance flight?

When he hasn't posted on the forum for about 10 hours...

WOOHOO!! What a day it's been!

I had a slip in the morning, Note to Self: You are not to use the unfiltered computer when no one is around, even just for a second. But then I got very very very busy.

So there's this other girl hanging around my house the last two days {what can you do, it's part of being's son} and I needed to work together with her on something [did I mention that my house contains offices?] I have no clue what she looks like, so ten points for me. But then I was in Boro Park [I said it was a very busy day] and managed to see some females, but every time I kept from looking I told myself: One small step for mankind, one giant step for ME...

Anyway, tomorrow I'm off for Monroe {lotsa pretty chassidishe meidelach and veibelach there as well- I'm told} and then comes Rosh HaShana!

Ready to take it on.

RAT!

Did you mean you're or your?

I need to know if I am welcome, or the welcome is mine, please advise,

Rosh HaShana was gevaldig. I felt like it was the culmination of a year that Hashem planned. I have so much to be thankful for. Hashem has molded my personality so much in the past year. A year ago Elul I was forced to down a coupla shots of whiskey before I could attempt public speaking, this Elul I delivered a perfectly ridiculous speech without flinching [see <http://guardyoureyes.com/forum/4-On-the-Way-to-90-Days/121468-hello-everybody!?limit=15&start=405#217925>]here[/url]]. A year ago Elul I wasn't being honest with anyone, myself included [obviously], today I'm more honest with myself, with others. A year ago Elul I did not have Oink and the best friends in the world. Today I do.

A year ago I wouldn't dream of opening up to a Rebbe about my "problem". I haven't YET, but I feel like it's going to happen this year- I came very close to doing it before leaving Israel.

A year ago I looked down on anyone I termed an "Ammaretz" Today I can respect people regardless of their Torah knowledge. It's scary how much I changed, and how much I still plan on letting Hashem change in me...

At his Shabbos Shuva Drasha, My Rov said that he has a friend that once decided to keep a journal where he'd record one instance of hashgacha pratis each day. A week later the Rov meets him: "So how's it going?" "Gevaldig" he answers, "every day, I'm seeing Hashgacha Pratis and writing it down". A week later the Rov meets him again "So, how's your journal coming along?" "I stopped". "Stopped?!" "You, see, it reached a point where it was disrupting my life, EVERY TWO MINUTES I WAS INTERRUPTING WHAT I WAS DOING TO RECORD SOMETHING OR OTHER IN MY JOURNAL!"

I feel the same way, I can't begin thanking Hashem for the past year, but I trust in him that this year will be even better!
