Welcome back,

How is your road going?

Keep us posed

My road... My road...

It's been a long bumpy road. But I can say this: I do not generally have an urge to act out and when I do, it's just an urge. What brought me here was basically, getting out of my head and my self-centeredness.

Changing my attitudes and perspectives on life, people and me.

Maybe more about that later

tell us more

and about the unexploded ordnance, the search for Bigfoot and the pursuit of all things wild and wonderful

Basically, I got married. Life went nuts.

I always wanted Shalom Bayit. But since all I ever thought about was {ME} I couldn't get it.

So I had to start looking at my thinking.

When am I thinking about "ME"?

-change course-

When am I thinking about "NEGATIVITY" "COMPLAINTS"

-change course-

When am I thinking about "Others"?

-good job!-

When am I feeling "Grateful"?

-good job-

These attitudes are what are taking me places b'ezrat Hashem.

There are certain thoughts I need to swim in, expand upon, nurture and grow.

There are certain thoughts I cannot touch, must put aside, away throw.

I need to maximize my time, fill it up, overflow.

I need to accomplish, to have something to show.

Oh would that I can relax like you.

But G-d has plans for me as a Jew.

OFFICIAL POST:

Although I have phone numbers of several chaveirim, both ba'aretz uva'olam.

I find it very difficult to make a phone call when I'm afraid I'll fall. I think this kind of defeats the whole purpose of me having their numbers.

Any advice?

T'was nice gettin' together twice this week. Almost like old times. Glad to hear that you're doin' well. Shabbos table was ironic. Turns out you and your cousin aren't the same guy, except you have similar hobbies; I'm sure you do it better though. And, as long as one Jew cares about another. Take care good buddie.
