

Steve C's Journey

Posted by stevec613 - 23 Sep 2009 12:36

I found the site on August 19, 2009.

So far so clean.

Thanks for the warm welcome

I wanted to check in with all my anonymous friends who are the cause of much of my success. I am now at 125 days clean and counting.

I am reading a sefer on the six constant mitzvos. #6 is to guard your heart and eyes. That means that not only are we staying far from sin every time we fight and win but every second that we are careful is another mitzvah.

I will post more on this subject once I complete the book.

How did you know I like the Woodford - I guess my anonymity is gone. Do you have my SSN as well?

Should I post your real name too? ;D

Hey SteveC, it's SteveS here. WOWIE on 125 days clean!! As Arnold would say, "VERY IMPRESSIVE..."

When I took French in HS, there were 2 Steves in the class. We were renamed Etienne Un and Etienne Deux. I was dubbed the Duh. I figured that was better than a name that implied stomach cramps.

Keep up your great work. Come visit my journal if you ever feel inclined to be in touch.

Steve.

Still Here - Still Clean - 149 days.

I have very little time to post these days. However have no fear, I am lurking and trying my best to keep up.

A good shabbos and a gutten chodesh to all.

Still here - still Clean - 170 days.

Thanks for all your support. I ordered the shalom bayis book that was recommended in the married mens thread. I am looking forward.

Shabbat Shalom
