

Yaakov's Ladder

Starting my log a little late, i'm BH holding by today, which is number 53 of all the todays, but Bein Hazmanim is coming and i need to keep in check, and might not have time for all the chatting that ussually helps me clear my mind (thanks guys!!).

i've been using AlexEliezers advice, that he gave me right when i first posted, of bulletproof Shemiras Einayim, or trying at least, and BH got to Today. but it's all changing now, it's not the same streets that i walk down every day, know exactly where to go so not to look, the dangerous places where i have to be careful etc.

now i'm entering the lions den, going to the airport, the airport itself, a few hours on the plane, etc. it's really scaring me!!

anyone have any ideas?

also been struggling with dreams, i know it shouldn't affect me, but it does, because it makes me realize that my mind isn't clean during the day, which leads to the next question how to keep my mind clean?

Wishing all you a Great Shabbos and it's Parshas Hachodesh so may we all be zoche to renew ourselves!!

by the way i love snow

and so does pidaini

the above was written for chesky and all above him

they wanted to know the "snow joke," so we ended by sayin' dat "it's no joke."

I had a scary thought during maariv tonight. I was thinking about one of Dov's recent megillos (they are long enough to take up a whole shemoneh esrei!!) how he wrote that it is rare that a person nowadays is willing to give up everything only because that's what Hashem wants, mostly it's because it is too painful for the person to live with (that's how I read it anyways). I was thinking of a few people I should show that to, who are cutting themselves slack and not really doing everything they could, yet they hold themselves to be true ovdei Hashem. and then I thought "how about showing it to yourself!! Just because you are giving it your all in one area, does that mean you're perfect now?!"

One thing that I have realized I'm not good (that bothers me slightly, I've since realized a few others that don't bother me at all) is krias sh'ma she'al hamitah. I just don't like doing it. I've tried many times to get more serious about it, but it never really worked. So I decided once again, we're going to get serious about it. "how are you going to do that? I'm just going to take it more seriously, I'm gonna try harder"....uh oh.... I've heard those words before, the famous last words....and then a little eagle started posting in my mind "what's gonna be different this time?"

So, what does everyone say? OPEN UP!!! Speak about it, face it, admit it!!

"GREAT!! To who?".."why not to your wife? she won't be hurt by this, it won't be painful for her didn't you write in a post that the only reason you're not telling your wife is because it'll hurt her?!" *

So I'm planning on telling my wife tonight "you know something interesting, I seem to have a problem. I don't want to say krias shema she'al hamitah. I have tried to do it, but it doesn't seem to work. So I'm jsut admitting that I have this problem, and that I need to face it and make it real"

Hmmm....Will I? It's much more comfortable to just continue skipping it, and to keep on trying to make it more serious, and giving myself chizzuk that I'm trying.....I guess I'll let y'all know *Just wanted to clarify, I now know for sure that my not telling my wife is not only because it will hurt her, even this thing, a small imperfection is so scary, for sure something like P&M!!

i thought for a few lines that you were talkin' about me....until you got to the part where you said, "yet they hold themselves to be true ovdei Hashem." I knew then that you had others in mind. shew!

Kerias shema she'al hamitah is important.

I am lax as well.

Perhaps let's make a group kabbalah.

What you say?

When I first started working on my problems one of the Kabolos I took upon myself was to say krias Shema every night from a siddur. I kept to it for quite a while but lately I got lax about it. So thanks for the reminder and I join you in being mekabel Bli Neder to be careful to say the entire krias Shema from a siddur each night. In the zechus of our tefillos we should be helped.

Is Gevurah an official OINK member?!

Does he have an OINK card?

Does he even know how to say OINK, or just VRROOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOM?!
