

The Road to Lizhensk

Posted by Lizhensk - 18 Jun 2013 20:31

Hey guys, ive been on here a bit. i recently changed my name from pleasehelp9753, so if u dont

. But im not letting it get me down (even tho my wife is ) . i so far have a total of 49 days since coming

By the way, side note: ive been working on my Shmiras Einayim, but even if i look, i dont feel any lust towards those women at all. In fact, that doesnt even turn me on, its just a teivah to recognize me, thats why look. And when i act out, thats all it is: a teivah to act out, does that make sense at all? (what im saying is that i think shmiras einayim on the street isnt my problem...)

Anyway, so i fell yesterday, at day 17

trying to make it get me down-she means well

Hi guys! havent posted on here for a while. Anyway, the reasaon is because i was embarrassed. I fell about 4 times since the last time I posted on here.

The last time i fell was last Sunday.

I've since gone to a few OINK meetings in between. The last one, I learned from other members to call another member in time of need. This past Wednesday, I was slipping and sliding. In middle, i thought, "i cant do this, i have to get in touch with someone". I started chatting with Pidaini and BH, he helped me stop.

After giving me chizzuk, he told me that this was a sign of growing, that i was able to get in touch with someone in order to stop.

Hi, after a fall this morning, I realized that I have been doing this all wrong. My attitude was, that if lust hits you like a fastball, catch it with a little give. Meaning, I was giving in all the time to my lusts. A little here and a little there. I even fell according to the rules many times, and still didn't count it as a fall, because all I was doing was giving a little.

This morning I was given a klop over the head by a fellow OINK member, and realized that my attitude was totally off the mark. We have been talking about "raising the bottom" and I would say to myself, "I don't need to raise the bottom, my wife knows, and is making me crazy, I KNOW I have to stop" but really, that isn't the bottom we were talking about, its not the bottom of c"v getting fired or other situational things, its really raising the bottom of what we think is bad. I used to think that HZ"L was a fall and anything beneath that is just a test/slip whatever you want to call it. But then I realized (on my own, the fellow OINK member just made me think) that every time I give in to lust, I am in essence falling.

An example of raising the bottom would be laying with my wife. Its muttar, in fact, it should be done. But if I do it just to feed my lusts and hopefully "get some", especially when i know she aint in the mood, that's wrong. And even though its not considered a "fall" according to the rules, I'm still failing tremendously at becoming a better person.

So, being that my count was, I said before, at times very untruthful, I would like a reset. Today is the first day of the rest of my life. Its day 0, and I have had 0 clean days.

No more taking a peak, no more finishing that story ("i only have 2 pages left anyway..."). Im done with that. I cant keep fooling myself into thinking that I'm getting better and then every afternoon when i lay down, start lusting again...

So here goes

I sent this as a email to Guard, i hope he responds and he resets my total clean day count to ZERO, because thats what it really was....

Peace out y'all, im off to figure myself out

this i know

lust is a magnet

it will shlep you from step 1 to 60 faster than a lambrogine (hu? insult to the car)

do i look at women outside? yes

when i was with 500 or 5000 women over weekend, do i look at their shapes? yes do i touch myself? no!

do i search on comp for anything? no!

whats the diff?

in middle of road, i cant really do much in front of comp, my pants can drop in an instant

i cannot email/respond to my woman (ex) friend, even about the weather

i am ranting

when i rant, i get excited; my fingers pound the keyboard

now im not tellin you or anyone to look at women but i am tellin you that do not put yourself or allow yourself to be in a position which can lead to falling sadly, and this is to me as well, pressing into wife is dangerous

this has happened countless of times in my marriage and my wife would say, "she's sorry," and i wouldn't say much, but to me, "Who da blank cares?" i do that downstairs anyway! at least here it was with wife now that im sick of being sick, i am trying, and the last week struggling, with this conclusion: think beforehand. is what i am about to do dangerous to my sobriety? each person has a different level. some should not look at women's shoes or nails. actually, all shouldn't. but in your living healthy days, stay as far away from anything which can lead to disaster...hz"l disaster? maybe yes, maybe no (its very very not good), but the real disaster is that youre not in control of your life, and that is where we wanna be.

most of this post started between me and lizhensk. i am talking mainly to myself.

b'hatzlachah to us all

I find that the fall doesn't start when we sit down at the computer.

The fall starts when we allow our minds to be occupied with women, sex and past experiences.

We may not feel it at the time. We may not feel aroused or have the urge to touch ourselves. We may tell ourselves we can handle it, because see? there are no consequences - BUT these thoughts tend to grow over time until they take over the mind and then we feel like we MUST act on them.

We need to catch ourselves when we find ourselves looking at women. Once we realize what we are doing, we must look away and tell ourselves that we can live without another look.

We need to catch ourselves when an improper thought comes to mind and blow it up or think about something else, telling ourselves that we can live just fine without thinking about it further.

Hatzlacha!

Skeptical;

In the big scope of things, you are probably more right than I that is why I concluded with: conclusion: think beforehand. is what i am about to do dangerous to my sobriety? each person has a different level. some should not look at women's shoes or nails. actually, all shouldn't. but in your living healthy days, stay as far away from anything which can lead to disaster...hz"I disaster? maybe yes, maybe no (its very very not good), but the real disaster is that youre not in control of your life, and that is where we wanna be.

I will just add that the bit of danger in your method is that it is extremely difficult, and if one does not succeed, he can become dejected, which leads to eventual acting out. What I am suggesting is easier, not easy, but ultimately, each person needs to judge himself.

conclusion again: try what skeptical suggested; especially the "blowing up" method...if it works, continue; if not, try something else; and please keep in mind some profound words that skeptical wrote elsewhere: but from introspection this is what I have found, The complacency is telling myself that I am managing when I take in the sights and don't feel a need to "act out." But really those are just the seeds and I may not feel the urges today, next week or even next month, but they do grow and mushroom

The most important thing is Awareness.

Believe me, I've been there. Sometimes I still am.

My name says it all.

When I first came to this site, people who seemed to go overboard with Shmiras Einayim drove me up the wall. They seemed so extreme (and sometimes still do!) "People aren't supposed to walk around with their eyes shut!! This is ridiculous!!"

But once I became aware of what I was doing - once I realized that I was looking at women as things to enjoy and not as people - and I started telling myself that I can and should look away, I will not die, it started to make things easier. We may not succeed in not looking every time, but being aware of where are thoughts are going and starting to take back control of our minds, it becomes a lot easier.
