

MISGABER? or perhaps not yet.....

So here is how it goes.

BUT !

When I was all of 9 years old, I had a class mate who came from a wealthy family always had more than he needed, his father a very very generous person always gave him extra to share with others, and share he did , but it came with a price tag! he would bribe me to go to the bathroom for a minute in middle of class let him... and he would reward me with whatever he had that day. obviously this didn't happen to often but occasionally this did, without any body knowing of anything!

Now I am not looking to blame anybody for my shortcomings but myself, I should of known better then to go along with this, But... this is the sad reality.

After Bar mitzvah we split up in 2 different Yeshivos, but naturally I was left with a dent and as a result I would have fantasies of all sorts did not have a clear head for a day, but I learned in a very respected Yeshiva was very careful to keep my dignity, made sure to act and talk properly, but inside myself lied a very big secret, many times was I anxious to go talk to a mashgiach about my problem, but my self respect shame and being afraid of revealing my secret kept me back of doing so. I would never drink a ounce on Purim being afraid of letting loose, and maybe I will say something!

So I lived that double life having a name as a TOP BOY and deep down I knew that I was a BOTTOM BOY!

Then came the big blow when I took a office job like 3 years ago and got access to a computer all day long... more need to be said? I found out and filled in all that I have been missing all along after a short while I went from bad to worse My wife kept on asking me what's the matter but of course after so many years of doing this I am quit a good actor and managed to fool her too.

After a while of this behavior and after a deep fall I decided to follow a link from GYE and see what they have to offer, I didn't sign up the first time cuz I cant unveil my secret but after a few times and realizing that I cant fool MYSELF any longer I gave it a try.

So like 4 months ago I had the privilege of joining this holy community and signed up counting 90 days, chatted a lot, read the forum a lot, and even made some close friends which I speak often on the phone, but I still had convicted myself that I am not as bad as the others here I don't need to open up to the public I am strong enough to keep a low profile and still be MISGABER, oh was I wrong! it helped me for a short time but not a long term solution! I reached 83 days once and then like 28 days but yesterday IO had a big blow!

So after consulting with my dear GYE friends I decided to go public and start counting my 90 days openly and hopefully with the koach harabim I will make it to 120 Years!

thanking you in advance for helping me be MISGABER.

Getting married is the best thing since sliced bread, cuz even if the bread isn't sliced, at least you have a wife to slice it.

Warning: Spoiler!

That's because she can eat your shirayim, you can't eat hers, but then again, according to the gufei halachos that shiyarei maachal is domeh to shiyarei kosos....

omg, did i get into hilchos niddah again?!

by the way, I am somewhat offended by your post

I once heard of a great Rabbi (who wears strokeees) whose son came home from school crying. One of his friends had told him off about something and he was hurt. The Rabbi said to him, " I don't understand, if he was right, then fix it, and if he wasn't, then why do you care about what he said?"

I'm not sayin' that one should stay that way, but whatever God does is for the good, so meanwhile it is good, although our hishtadlut should be for the ultimate good.

Lo tov heyot headam levado.

there is a yeshivisheh diyuk attributed to the alter mirers..

it says lo toiv. but it doesn't say "rah"....kinda like in between.
