

Bigmoish's path to tahara

Posted by Bigmoish - 29 Jul 2014 23:01

I just posted my story in the "introduce yourself" forum. It feels like a weight off my shoulders already, but I hope I can really do this.

I already woke up this morning with the YH in my head, but I managed to brush it off and go

Zemmy

youll have to clear your throat real load, he can't hear you, cos he's doing Zemiros Shabbos at the top of his voice, and only replies if his life is at risk

this has been tried and tested

It would feel very good right now to take a hit of my sweet sweet drug.

Such an easy escape from reality; such a great high.

I'm too lazy to get around all my filtration devices at the moment, but wonderful fantasies can easily be dreamed up in my mind's eye.

So, what will it be? Will I? Or won't I? Do I really have the ability to choose anymore?

Of course I do. But the choice is not yes or no, life or death, sanity or foolishness.

Given those options, I am guaranteed to choose the choice of folly and fleeting pleasure. Eventually. Perhaps not this time (though probably), but my will power is not unlimited. It is, in fact, very weak.

The choice I have right now is the choice between me and God. Nothing more, nothing less. If I choose me, which I well may, I will then be faced with the futile options presented above.

If I choose to accept God, anything is possible.

But will I?

Will you?

There are a lot of people rooting for you.

But only one matters.

Today, I am rooting for myself.

It's always only as painful as I choose to make it.

It has now been approximately a month since I've been active on the forums here.

I have found myself to be more productive and able to focus better on the things I need to do for my recovery (if I can remember what they are). Also, my ego sometimes gets a bit caught up in the discussion and I get too emotionally involved in the conversations, causing me to endanger my very fragile sobriety. I do not profess to understand why that is, it just seems to be my experience.

As of now, I have no plans to return to full-time posting, for the reasons mentioned.

From the bottom of my heart, I thank every person on these forums, as each one of you has brought me to further realization of the steps I need to take.

I can still be contacted by PM, as I check my GYE email daily, or by phone, or by direct email, or hangouts, or text, or whatsapp, etc. Several members can attest that I have not been out of contact, merely off the forums.

If anyone wants to remain in touch, please PM me for my email address.

Kol Tuv, and thanks for your friendship.

Moshe
