

NEED HELP AND ENCOURAGEMENT!

Posted by ashbalt - 19 Apr 2015 12:56

Quickly! This isn't even a week and I feel like I can't hold on much longer. I need help right now. Something to keep my mind off these things. I'm trying to learn something but it's really hard to focus. C'mon guys! As I said before, I don't want to lose this time because it won't be serious if I do...

Cheers y'all!

If you have done an entire week- that's seven count them seven days you know - you certainly can do today as well.

Tell us more - what are your particular struggles? any game plan yet?

Yeah its all about one day at a time. Or rather one moment at a time.

Do you have anyone you could call or speak to openly?

Sorry for not answering sooner, but no. I have no one to speak to apart from this forum.

First of all, many over here would gladly speak to you if only you would reach out, however there is someone you could speak to always 24/7 he listens and lets you finish your sentence, he lets you vent all what you wish to say and more than all he answers promptly, its a matter of believing in the worth of our prayer and his power.

I'd rather not tell anyone because it's really weird to have this person, which you probably respect, look at you with a crooked eye. I want to forget this problem ever existed and I don't need a living, breathing person to remind me about it constantly.

That's the benefit of this site the anonymity, you could stay with your self respect and still be helped by others without being judged, DEAR FREIND! reach out for help you will not regret it for a moment, be'Hatzlacha!

p.s. you could PM me if you want.
