

first time-first try.

Posted by fightingyid - 19 Apr 2015 13:52

This is the first i am acknowledging my struggle to anyone as well as the first time i am writing a post in my life! I am going to try my hardest to be 90 days clean. ill admit I'm scared. I have been slipping a lot lately and i can't live this lie, and its just not about the lie its about how dirty and low i feel, i used to think I'm the only one in the from community fighting this struggle but I'm glad to see that there is a support group. I hope i do well , today is going to be day 1, I am nervous and scared but hopefully i can take day by day and fight and see where it gets me.

Welcome fighting yidd. I echo what Belmont says. Join the community and read the handbook. You will likely keep falling but if you are trying you will slowly learn tools for living that reduce and sidestep the struggle, and give you a life of joy, integrity, peace, freedom and so much more. I haven't "arrived" (who has?), I still fall, but I've experienced all of this already.

Welcome fighting yid!

You can see from shlomo and belmont the quality of members that GYE has.

The more you stay on this forum - post your inquiries and struggles the more you will get out of it.

Welcome to GYE, fightingyid!!

It really is great that you made it here!! Why not tell us more about yourself, about your struggles? The more we know the more we can connect, and the more we can connect, the more helpful our relationships will be.

What have you been doing these past 4 days that helped you?

KOP!! and of course, KOMT!!!
