

My journey to become a HeiligerYid!
Posted by heiligeryid - 23 Dec 2015 23:44

Hi!

I started my 90 days chart more than a month ago, then after being 30 days clean i fell again.
As of now i undertook a new journey, reaching my 8th day b"h. Hope to keep going with the support of my new friends at GYE!

Good morning!

Thanks Markz Gevura and Ben torah, your chizuk is really helpful.

So far i don't feel the kedusha yet, but i guess it's not about feeling, you gotta do what's right.

Will keep you posted.

Welcome.

I have a hard time feeling kedusha as well, though it doesn't bother me that much.

Perhaps because I'm a kalte litvack...

Were all in this together

The feeling I experienced wasn't in the "wow so heilig", rather ask yourself - how dirty do you feel today compared to last

Your mindset may change also, but that's a different discussion

KOT!!!

I just reached the 13th day b"h.

Whenever i feel a weak moment, i remind myself of my 90 day journey, that i can't afford to lose the battle, i must continue with all my strength. You may not feel Kedusha but in your essence you are Heilig, hence your user name!

It became a little difficult bc since i started my new count my wife was tahor, and yesterday she became a niddah. But i will try my best, as i've learned through the forums that in those days i can work on really loving her without interference of lust.

Same boat as you, Heilig. I'm up to day 25 B"H and for the bulk of it my wife was tehora but she became a Niddah last night as well. But I'm looking forward to the challenge since this is where it really counts. I'm not saying it's easy when one's wife is tehora (it's not), but I agree that it can act as a crutch to some degree.

Hatzlacha in your journey!

I think also that thinking about lust can be the "first drink" which can spiral and lead to other things.
