

After a long tome i'm back again
Posted by BS D - 15 Nov 2009 16:34

hi everyone

i haven't posted for such a long time

well in the past few months i've been on a rollercoaster. ive had ups and downs. ive been clean i suppose most of the time. but i have fallen many times.

i have additional pressures on my head ie shidduchim. but every time it doesn't work out i'm happy. coz i know i havent really sorted out my problem yet.

i fell today and now would like to restart the 90 day. pleas help

Hey BSD, are you currently doing a 12 step program? or are you thinking about it? Maybe we could do it together or something.

I just thought of that because i was thinking about my situation and i realized that im really stuck and i might need some more serious form of help, such as the 12 step program. And from what I hear it's much more effective to work the 12 steps with someone else.

Let me know what you think.

Well the truth is i'm not that sure how to go about it. I know that main thing is giving the struggle over to Hashem but i don't understand the whole thing of working the steps.

I'd love to hear ur ideas on the topic

I just fell!

It all started with a bad email.

I'm not going to talk about it. I'm just going to find some new fences to build!

Hey BSD, I'm on day 4 right now, so if you want, we can try to climb this one together!!!

May you feel Ha-shem under your wings as you fly ever higher!
