Just need to vent
encouraging and thoughtful that i know i can do this for good !

Why the hell can she argue on every damn thing I say and way I live life and I cannot even say a stinking thing about any of the stupid things she does to waste money let alone try to explain things that I do.

And how the Hell did she decide to marry me if she is so indecisive about any g-d damn thing in life

She married you because even though she can't decide about anything and is so indecisive, when it came to YOU it was very clear to her. It says a lot about how she likely feels about you.

(Some) Women have a tendency to connect through venting and criticizing. I have the distinct feeling of listening to my wife complain about all the things I do wrong sometimes, and if I can grit my teeth and actually LISTEN and be empathic, after she's done she's full of love.

Me-inside I'm hurt and seething and wondering "If you really feel all the things that you just said, how can you be so loving now?"

The answer- she doesn't really feel that way. She felt that way twenty minutes ago at that moment. If I was able to take it, her feeling is gone.

Impossible for me to understand as a supposedly logical guy. But seemingly a not unusual female style.

So what do you do? Learn to try to see it only for what it is. It's very hard.

On her part in regard to your feelings, as our therapist told my wife, "Your delivery can use a little work."

Welcome to marriage!

Thanks Workingguy

Yes what you say is the basics of understanding your wife this is not something new but I was hoping someone would spell it out.

And thank you for waiting a day or two in responding if this was posted right away I would have responded with stupid excuses why this does not apply to me (your beautiful way of explaining how she decided to marry me) and I would eventually be embarrassed with my behavior (at least more than I am already)

Thank you

Something about a Camel drinking water, but last I checked it's actually supposed to be a horse

I wish gyes would use the 'quote' button

Please reread it and tell me if it makes 1% sense

"I believe cutting down on virtual connectivity and upping the real / live gye regular connection is likely to help you find some sort of sanity in life. You took baby steps in that direction... I think you can grow out of the infant seat - only if you wish

Thats my unsolicited take for a fellow brother. Take it or leave it

UCTAHTTW..."

I am sorry but the best guess I have is something to do with connecting to real people.

Other than that no clue what the words are
