

Bb0212's road...

Posted by bb0212 - 06 Feb 2017 14:45

So I'm officially at 10 days. Might be more, pretty sure it's not less, I started my chart after being clean for a few days but I wasn't keeping track. I kinda gave up the long term fight, didn't see how I'd win that fight. However I finally finally finally figured out how to properly filter my phone. I was getting around every filter until a couple of weeks ago. A kosher phone made this seem possible, then I joined these forums so lots of hope here.

One of the reasons I decided to do this is to "be faithful" to whomever my next wife will be, kinda like I was clean for a year or two before my first marriage. Back then, I was only clean after giving up movies/tv. The amount "undercover" sexuality on tv/movies is mind boggling for a society where there's no such thing as sexism. I wonder why we don't see the women's lib protesting the disproportionate amount of female to male sexualizing... (I'm being slightly sarcastic). At some point I'll have to give up movies/tv again and I will. But not yet...

I cannot beat the YH by myself, he's way too strong. But, the same way a sports fan feels good when his team wins, (we won!) I feel good when my team (Team bb) wins. Not sure if that goes against Dov's policy.

Sorry to hear about your boxin' matches.

Have you tried one of the phone conferences? They generally speak to the inside of the person and change, rather than a simple superficial bandaid?

B'hatzlachah

Didn't try the phone conferences yet, not quite ready for that right now. It'll be another stress in my life & I'm trying to figure out how to deal with the stress I currently have. However I really appreciate your response Cords. (Aren't you on the dl now?)

So, I don't know the rules of boxing, but I know that you're not allowed to put your opponent in a chokehold. That doesn't really matter to me, because I do what I gotta do. My opponent doesn't follow rules. I won this round, got him in a chokehold.

fixed the filter problems on my phone and laptop. Ready to keep fighting! Next round...

My pleasure.

hatzlachah on the stress.

Goin' with your mashal, the y"h has no limit; he can fight more than 15 rounds, many more.

Yup, fight of a lifetime. We win some, we lose some.

Amen!

Wrong!

At least for me (and others have told me so as well).

I am interested in sanity.

Fightin' for lifetime doesn't interest me one bit.

That's why now I am not fightin'.

I am not in the rin'.

Heck, I'm not even in the Garden.

Moral of the story:

Don't fight. Surrender! Seek sanity!

We have different stories here. If somebody who doesn't box goes into a ring, he will be destroyed. He can accept that he doesn't box and go do something else. In my story, I'm a boxer in a ring. I don't intend on surrendering, because my circumstances are different.

"Win some lose some" works for me, because in the big picture, my goal is not to have a perfect record as a boxer.

Heck, I may have a losing record, but look at a baseball player who "fails" in 60% of his at bats, but gets a base hit in 40%. He would be considered the best baseball player to have hit in all of baseball over the last 60+ years, a tremendous success.

So too, each of my successes are worth so much more than each failure.

It'll be another stress in my life & I'm trying to figure out how to deal with the stress I currently have.

Back in the 80s there was a businessman furiously typing on his typewriter, drowning in work.

Along comes a salesman to try to sell him the latest thing - a personal computer.

Said the businessman "I can't talk to you now, can't you see how much paperwork I have to get through!"

Nice story, I got your point. My point is really simple: There are many helpful tools that may be of use someday for me. But right now it can hurt more than help.

The salesman selling the computer said, "Get this, it's gonna make your work much more efficient." The businessman replied "That's great, one day I may buy it. Right now I have no way of getting the money to buy it."

In either case, please don't push that on me anymore. Thank you!
