

Journey of one day at a time

Posted by Ihavenostrength - 10 Feb 2017 20:04

---

This is day one or perhaps it's day zero. I fell today. It wasn't much fun. I was clean for 32 days. That is about how long I usually go for. I really want to be done with this problem. I just want to be normal. My self esteem is crushed every time I fall. Somehow internal adversity is more painful than an external adversary. For if it's an external adversary, even if he's causing you pain, you don't take the blame for it. Only the pain. With the internal losses you get both. I suppose I'm my own worst enemy. Well I hope that was morbid enough for you, because I'd like to begin my journey.

=====

=====

Re: Journey of one day at a time

Posted by Ihavestrength - 29 Aug 2017 13:44

---

Day 41: Morning call. Empathy and what we do when feeling stuck was spoken about. Ok, time get kicking some...

=====

=====

Re: Journey of one day at a time

Posted by Ihavestrength - 31 Aug 2017 04:27

---

Here are done some random thoughts: A bad plan is better than no plan.

Any decision is better than indecision.

When life is tough I think, why G-d?

When it gets good I think, I don't deserve this! This leads to guilt.

Turns out I don't know too much about

G-d.

=====
=====

Re: Journey of one day at a time
Posted by Ihavestrength - 01 Sep 2017 01:03

---

Day 43: Starting to get annoying to post everyday. Spoke to my sponsor today bh.

=====
=====

Re: Journey of one day at a time
Posted by Workingguy - 01 Sep 2017 13:09

---

Keep posting. When you write things like it's getting annoying to post, you're articulating real feelings- some that people relate to but haven't had the courage or opportunity to say.

And anyway, when you committed to posting every day you never said you would only do it if it was fun.

=====
=====

Re: Journey of one day at a time
Posted by Ihavestrength - 03 Sep 2017 07:07

---

Day something: Don't really know exactly which day. My calender is on my old phone (just got a new one). Anyways... Covenant eyes driving me crazy a bit with it's technical issues. I recently got a couple new devices and needed to install the program on them. I like having it... it's not going to help if you are looking for anything probably. It just feels ridiculous and irresponsible to have the most graphic porn a click away. I feel better having it. But... it's giving me a bit of grief.

Gut voch!

=====

=====

Re: Journey of one day at a time
Posted by Markz - 03 Sep 2017 12:12

---

lhavestrength wrote on 03 Sep 2017 07:07:

Day something: Don't really know exactly which day. My calender is on my old phone (just got a new one). Anyways... Covenant eyes driving me crazy a bit with it's technical issues. I recently got a couple new devices and needed to install the program on them. I like having it... it's not going to help if you are looking for anything probably. It just feels ridiculous and irresponsible to have the most graphic porn a click away. I feel better having it. But... it's giving me a bit of grief.

Gut voch!

I have CE too and think it's great for someone like me

Whats all the grief about

=====

Re: Journey of one day at a time
Posted by Shivisi_Hashem - 03 Sep 2017 17:11

---

lhavestrength wrote on 01 Sep 2017 01:03:

Day 43: Starting to get annoying to post everyday. Spoke to my sponsor today bh.

HHay, dont give up, it gets me going, dont het annoyed, and if you do, just do it for us, we follow you daily..

thank you

=====

Re: Journey of one day at a time

Posted by MayanHamisgaber - 03 Sep 2017 17:44

---

lhavestrength wrote on 01 Sep 2017 01:03:

Day 43: Starting to get annoying to post everyday. Spoke to my sponsor today bh.

Just my $0.02 stop posting unless you need to

?What does your sponsor say?

=====

=====

Re: Journey of one day at a time

Posted by lhavestrength - 04 Sep 2017 01:11

---

Day 46: @markz The "grief" is from the technical issues. The program rendered my new laptop practically unusable and was causing my phone to lag and crash. Hopefully it will be resolved soon. I really don't like having my devices unfiltered. Just seems negligent to have the ultimate garbage a click away.

@shivisi Thanks.

I really must check if I actually committed to writing everyday this time around. I don't remember.

Oops. In responding I forgot to post something new for today.

I think one thing this addiction took away from me is the ability to intentionally engage in pleasurable activities in a healthy way.

This addiction taught me to equate pleasure with destruction.

Pleasure can be very healthy I think. When I listen to a nice song to give myself a break after studying a bit, what's wrong with that? Nothing, I think. Unfortunately, I have to retrain myself not to feel guilty when engaging in healthy pleasures in the course of leading a balanced life. The addiction caused me to think in black and white. Pleasure=Bad/Guilt. Deprivation/working hard=good.

@mayan Thanks. I never asked him.

=====

Re: Journey of one day at a time
Posted by lhavestrength - 04 Sep 2017 01:26

---

Hmmm. Looks like I did make mention of a commitment to write everyday. Guess I'll follow through even though I missed a couple days already. Probably should start reading the chizuk emails again too.

=====

Re: Journey of one day at a time
Posted by lhavestrength - 04 Sep 2017 21:25

---

Day Whatever: It honestly doesn't matter. Oh my G-d, it's been so many days... I must need a release... The mind is super powerful. Counting any number of days is saying that it's a chidush rather than the norm that you are clean. It's validating a whole crazy idea that you are entitled somehow to a certain amount of sex/lust/porn whatever.

Yes, not counting does have it's downsides. You can't give yourself an ego boost for staying clean for sooo many days. But really? Do you want to get your self esteem from the fact that you didn't act like an idiot for X amount of days? I sure as hell don't. I'm not amazing for not acting out. I'm just acting with sanity. It's crazy for me to act out. I don't deserve a medallion... yadayadayada. Being sane for today really is enough for me. That is my reward.

One day at a time isn't a coping mechanism. It's accepting reality. Half the time we are running around trying to make sure we'll be clean tomorrow. Trying to get it all exorcised. This is total fantasy. Not to mention overwhelming. It's a purely unnatural way of living. Trying to control every damn thing. The future, the past, and the present. This is exactly what leads to acting out. Yes, I am saying that counting days can very likely cause you to act out.

(I think in the very beginning it can be useful though to get off the ground. Also can be great if you want to build your ego around not ejaculating.)

Ok, now let me go update my count.

P.S Totally not trying to tell people what to do btw. So don't shoot me please.

=====

Re: Journey of one day at a time

Posted by Hashem Help Me - 05 Sep 2017 00:40

---

Beautiful and honest post. The beauty of these forums is that everybody can express their true feelings. (and as we have seen, everyone can respond as they see fit too.....) Continued hatzlocha with your one moment at a time mehalech.

=====

Re: Journey of one day at a time

Posted by GrowStrong - 05 Sep 2017 21:56

---

I use an app to count days and now i have a single date in my memory.

The date i stopped acting out.

And in meetings i think im going to use the Israeli way of giving that over (backwards)

Today I have 3 weeks and 8 months sober from porn, masturbation and lusting with my eyes.

One day at a time.

Thank God.

=====

Re: Journey of one day at a time

Posted by Hashem Help Me - 06 Sep 2017 00:23

---

You should be blessed forwards and backwards!

=====