

Tateh all my struggles are you
Posted by tiger - 13 Feb 2017 02:56

WWho gives me my breath?

who gives me my sight?

Who gives me strength?

Who gives me everything I have?

I think we all can agree that hashem gives it to us!!

So why don't I believe that my lusting comes from him too?

Why when I lust do I think that I am disconnected from hashem?

Without him I would never be able to lust! Why did he send me lust? To stay there and fall?
Heaven forbid!!

He sent lust so that I can understand what love means!

But what do I do now when I am all tied up in lusting for the wrong things?

I ask hashem to remove it for he is the one that blows life into it!

But I do this lots of times and I find it does not help me??????

We don't know hashems ways at all. We ask him to remove it and we are honest with ourselves and we leave the rest up to him!

If it's so simple why do I keep falling?

It's not so simple to believe that everything is hashem,try it and see for yourself.

Just sharing some of my thoughts

Resetting my count, I don't need days I need sobriety, past few days I have not been doing the right things, today I crossed the line, to put it nicely I was almost in shoal tactis, somehow I was able to stop right in middle

Wish me well

Incredible you were able to stop in middle. Wow. What's the plan to stop earlier - by not starting? What triggers are you going to avoid? Take your courage to the next step. Hatzlocha.

Im really not sure what triggered this, obviously it all started with the small Amazon slip that I mentioned earlier, but it can also be that I got pulled in this week to worrying about money which for me is a disaster, also was waking up earlier cause of rosh chodesh davening and was tired, when I am tired I am nervous and vulnerable! Could it be that I have to be careful not to be tired?? How can u live a life without being tired??

I will continue being honest no matter what with God's help of course, enough bs!!!!

Thanks everyone for the kind words

You have to plan how to deal with anxiety and exhaustion. Be prepared. It makes a big difference. Do you speak with anyone?

If the tiredness you refer to is that you're tired from lack of sleep then i suggest getting more sleep, or having coffee. If the tired is like "i don't know what i'm doing in life" tired, then i suggest talking to someone in your personal life that can help you out, or get in touch with someone here and explain your situation to them and hopefully they can help. (i would recommend getting someone in your personal life to help as they probably will know you better)

Sounds like you are very busy and over focused on getting enough sleep. Just be normal. Eat well, sleep well and exercise. Be prepared that when you are tired that you will need to reach out and call someone.

Coffee!

I find that IF coffee helps it is only to help me push myself...

Funny after we had this conversation I ended up going to sleep very late last night, somebody was chewing my ears off, had to coffees today and overall was trying to be happy and not let it get to me.

On day 5 today, it's funny how different I feel now on day five! I am not feeling upset at all about my reset, just the opposite I feel great that I was honest, I am still in the process of sharing my last fall with somebody that is close to me and knows my struggles, i have not been able to get to him yet, so I'm still feeling Abit under the bus! This is also planned from above!
