It is very inspiring that every admits to almost everything here

I just reread what I posted recently i said i had accumulated 2000 clean days

Sorry! it was 1200 that I reached and those days certainly weren't consecutive

Anyway I wish everyone a week of kedusha

Inspiring indeed

Just would like to point out that admitting to things here while an amazing step and enough for some there are many that it is just the first step in their recovery and will eventually need to go on to phone calls and live meetings.

What works for some might not work for others and what works for one person now might not work later on

Keep on trucking and trying things till you find what works for you
