

This time I'm going to do it

Posted by TYH18 - 27 Apr 2020 05:31

I've been struggling for years. I've been on GYE for a little while but no matter how much I tried to do the 90 day challenge I keep on falling. I am now officially starting a week challenge for myself... Wish me luck

Welcome, sorry to hear, and good luck!

Try a daily challenge!

Whats that old saying?

Its not that you fall, its how you get up afterwards (or something like that). So keep on trying!

Well I'm back where I started now. But I thought to myself. I'm going to want to get married soon and whoever that girl will be does not deserve me doing this. I gotta step up my game darnit, I thought the same thing, then got married and went straight back to the stuff! Now it's 6 years in and I'm 3 days clean. And all I can think about is that Dov was married for 10 years, so I've still got another 4 years to mess around until we're evens. Insane!!!!

TYH18 welcome to the GYE! Keep posting about your journey. If I may make a simple suggestion. After any relapse (hopefully none will happen, but don't get down if they do), you need to up your game and include a new strategy. If you keep doing the same thing you will get the same results. For example, if you fell without a filter, take your device to a TAG office to get it filtered. If you already have a filter, then join the ninety day chart. If you are already on the chart, consider getting an accountability partner/mentor via GYE. contact the admin for this. There are innumerable strategies you can employ. Just keep on fighting and keep us posted
