

Slogging Through the Muck

Posted by habaletaher - 16 Dec 2009 09:28

Hello to everyone,

This is my first foray into the world of GYE, and I'm really hoping that it will become a real force in my life, as I've been battling the other forces for too long.

I'm happily married to a beautiful and loving woman, and together we are raising a bunch of wonderful children, yet there is a side of me that no one knows about, a side of me that has been eating away at me for almost as long as I can remember. That side of me is the Mr. Hyde to my Dr. Jekyll, the crazed sicko who gets set loose at night and does horrific shameful things. Being a true ohaiv Ha-shem, who really loves the aibishter and his torah and mitzvos this creates an enormous amount of conflict in my life, leading me to feelings of isolation despite being surrounded by people who love me, and despair despite leading a relatively successful life.

To compound those feelings, I am involved in avodas hakodesh, so while people are looking to me for inspiration, I'm sometimes involved in things that if they had the slightest clue of, they would pillory me in the town square. This makes me feel even more like a fake and a fraud despite the fact that all I really want to do in my life is bring people closer to Avinu Shebashamayim. Many times, I have thought about quitting, recognizing that I'll never really be able to inspire others if there's no gas in my fuel tank, but I'm reminded of the fish's response to Rabbi Akiva, "If in the water, the place of our life, we need to fear, how much more so on dry land, the place of our death!" So I guess I will try to stay close to the water, (besides all the teaching I do, I personally learn for hours every day, sometimes immediately followed by a most inglorious session of shmutz!), and just keep trying to slog through the muck.

I hope you can give me the chizzuk I need to make it out of my living hell.

Habaletaher

PS I can't even say Day 1! Maybe tomorrow!

Ya'll should be super proud of me. I went to a basketball game, and brought a small gemara with me. Whenever the cheerleaders came out, I buried my face in the good book. I learned almost 2 blatt, felt a bit like a dork/weirdo frummie, but kept my eyes where they belonged! In the end I felt really good about it, b/c not only did I not look at the cheerleaders, I felt real good about myself so I didn't look at all the other stuff hangin out there that I shouldn't have been looking at. IT FELT GOOD, EVEN BETTER THAN WOODFORD!!!

(reading zohar)..."so, this seems to be instructions for making a zonah disappear..." Hmm...

Next day newspaper headline "Sudden riot at MSG..."

Oops - With all the joking, I may have forgotten to say how incredible you are...which you already know, of course, but I'm just reminding you!

SB, precious!!! I can't wait for the day!! If I would have used that at MSG, I would have taken out 30% of the crowd before I even got to page 2!

Hmmm... Zeir anpin, dachakal tapuchin kadishin... raza diyichuda shilimta...

Suddenly people start disappearing with a barely audible POP! and before you know it the arena is mostly empty and Haba looks up and says in a Steve Urkel voice "Did I do that?"

Oy, IM25, I'm afraid your absence has addled your mind a bit... wait! Your mind was addled before you left!

Have a shot of Woodie on me my dear friend.

Pull another stunt like that leaving us again, we may just put you in a barrel of W and pull a moridin vi'ein ma'alim on you!!!

You brought a tremendous amount of kedusha there...and who knows - maybe being in your proximity will help them be better and dress a bit more tzniyusdik...anything's possible.

Keep on rocking, Haba, and have a great shabbos!
