

This time I will do it (keep me accountable!)
Posted by thetimeisnow! - 21 Apr 2021 13:41

---

I fell again this morning. It really really sucks. I feel terrible and so ashamed of myself.

[p]I think it happened because I was feeling depressed from yesterday and because I no longer had the taphsic method in effect, so the deterrence wasn't really there for me. I just feel so bad. The last few days have been a big downward spiral. But, all failures can be followed by a new beginning. From now on I am going to post every day that I can because I really need the accountability. We are going to have to take it one day at a time. If anyone has any suggestions for me I would be happy to hear them!

Day 0,

Best of luck!

Just fyi you don't have to make a new thread each time (although you can if you want) its just sometimes its helpful to look back at ur whole thread to see how far you've came and your ups and downs and what worked, didn't work, etc.

Day 4 BH!

I've been keeping myself relatively busy the past few days and plan on further packing my calendar in the coming weeks so that there will be no time for boredom. So far no big urges...they usually hit by day 8-9 though so I am coming into the first wave extremely

Day 11 BH

Every day clean is a blessing.

Hoping to continue to keep myself busy to avoid future boredom...

We gotta continuously ask ourselves "what can we do today, to make today count"

Keep up the great work!
