I was thinking I feel like I've been focusing on my falls more than my wins. And I should start celebrating wins. Any ideas.

Day 3

I restarted Friday with a plan with accountability and fixing some places where I was getting lax.

I have been getting lazy on some of the "yellow stuff" for example not bringing my phone into the bathroom even though it's filtered as a precaution. So for the next week (at least) I will go back to being very strict on that. Starting now.

Anyways day 3 and going good.

Day 4

Going strong.

nothing out of the ordinary. Keeping accountable.

Day 1....

Fell last night..

maybe my excitement is less than before or I fell back into the cycle i was in just a couple months ago. Maybe this is good to see that even though I went a long time clean it'll still be a battle.

In my own experience both the question and answer here are a lot more irrelevant then you think in the moments.

although hard to shake the urge to think on it.

It's a hiccup of starting again nothing more.

Keep going man
