

Day 88 Josh on the way...

Posted by josh - 29 Jan 2010 01:10

Wow.....

Unbelievable....

I had to wait to day 88 to gather enough courage to write here.

I have been looking all my life for something like this web site and it wasn't till my work mate forwarded me a link to this site and as soon as I saw this site I started and B"H haven't fallen and IY"H won't fall ever again.

I would like to thank my work mate who I guess is also finishing his 90 days now for if not for him who introduced me to this site who knows how much longer I would have continued....

And if you need any help just know that you saved my life and that enough should give you enough strength to continue for many more years....

Thank you administration of GUE for all the E mails and reminders....

The daily emails and reminders even though I didn't always have time to read them...

Just being in the inbox reminded me to behave myself and keep away from the bad

Good shabbos friend...

Josh

Mazal tov - no matter what happens, you've taken a huge step forward, creating a major distance between you and this disease, and you've taught yourself that the yetzer hora has no hold over you!

Keep on trucking!
