

Momo II: Another try

Hi everyone,

After originally joining this forum, my first streak was the best for me (24 days). That was accompanied by almost daily posts and the chart. More important than the number of days, during this streak I really felt the Kedusha and that was an amazing feeling. I felt that I was actually getting rid of lust from within me. However, after I fell, I gave up with the forum and chart, and had smaller streaks. I make efforts to try again, however, I never reached the feeling of Kedusha during the shorter streaks (that were between 5 and 20 days). I also never felt that I was getting rid of the lustful feelings. I was just counting days until the next fall.

Anyway, I'm ready to try again with the chart and posting on the forum. I'm ready to make a REAL effort again but I've been feeling very lonely for the past few days, and I need the chizuk from this board to remind me that I'm not alone, and someone cares if I try or not.

Here's another try to feel the Kedusha and attempt to rid myself of the lust...

My first clean day was May 12, so yesterday (May 16) counts 5 clean days so far.

May HaShem help me.

Start counting by minutes Momo. They add up much faster and are constant reminders that those are yours for eternity.

4 days is great. Dont lose perspective!

And keep up with the music. You really enjoyed it and its a great healthy hobby which can help you get out of yourself for a while.

Thanks Steve.

I had a humbling experience at work today. I was getting all sure of myself because I had a really great couple of days at work this week, but today some of my work was found to be faulty (even though some if it was still good). I feel that I was taken down a notch.

My ego is hurting, and I'm trying to not let this get me down too much.

Why do I care so much what other people think of me and my work?

Why can't I focus on the fact that I did a lot of good this week, even though some of what I thought was good really wasn't in the end?

Why focus on the negative? Why do I demand perfection of myself? Nobody's perfect, besides HaShem.
