

Re: At the start of a journey

Posted by teenagehelp - 26 Apr 2010 22:20

hoping4change, once again you prove why the Tanya as well as yourself, are very valuable suppliers of information. in the same light as your quote, i sometimes like to think of my life, especially regarding this area, like the movie "The Truman Show." for those unfamiliar with it, its basically a movie where the main character has his entire life filmed, without him knowing it, and everyone else in his life is an actor. even if this seems depressing, its still very intriguing to think of how people would act if they knew that their life was being taped 24/7 (or 24/6 ;D) how's your day been going?

=====
=====