

Here I come!

Posted by FixMySoul - 06 Jul 2010 09:33

In full force fighting against the yetzer hara! Starting my 90 day journey and hoping for strength from the Almighty!

I'll resort here when I am feeling tempted and at my wits end, but I can do it!

Shalom,

FixMySoul!

=====
=====

Re: Here I come!

Posted by yehoshua - 06 Jul 2010 09:42

You go brother!!! Loking good, they say it is a mitzvah to be on fire, to be passionate. Thanks for your fire, it makes me burn stronger too!

Yehoshua

=====
=====

Re: Here I come!

Posted by bardichev - 06 Jul 2010 11:00

Fire away!!!

We are always here for backup,ammo,k-rations,firstaid,

Welcome warrior!

B

=====

=====

Re: Here I come!

Posted by briut - 06 Jul 2010 13:18

yehoshua wrote on 06 Jul 2010 09:42:

it is a mitzvah to be on fire, to be passionate. Thanks for your fire,

You know, there may be different approaches for different people. One is on fire and fighting. That stopped working for me after a while, because I got exhausted at the prospect that I'd always be fighting (one day at a time).

Instead, I've been a little sneakier lately. I speak quietly and lovingly, almost whispering, to the enemy: "Dear YH: I've known you for SO long. You've been a constant companion. And I've always listened to you IN THE PAST when you say that your way is the right way for me. But right now, I need to have a day without you. Just a short break to take care of some other business.

"If you REALLY love me, and REALLY have my best interests at heart like you've always said, then you'll OF COURSE give me a day's break. Feel free to come around tomorrow, because you know I've always been happy to see you , but I'll feel so much better if you'll go away for a day. You DO still love me, don't you?

=====

=====