GYE - Guard Your Eyes Generated: 16 August, 2025, 15:43 Tzvi's Progress Posted by Tzvi - 08 Nov 2010 15:36 Today is day one for me. That may not sound great, but the truth is it's much better than day zero. Kedusha was one of the people that gave me advice on what to choose for a taphsic k'noss. I chose kappettel 119 as the k'noss like he suggested. I'm not doing shavuois though. I'm stam doing a kaballah bli neder which should be good enough for me. Unfortunately I'm used to falling a few times a day, and often I will have to suffer with very strong urges that just don't seem to go away. Re: Tzvi's Progress Posted by ZemirosShabbos - 11 Nov 2010 15:30 reb Tzvi, you make us proud!

talk is cheap, you are in the trenches, slogging it out, YOU are the hero here!

keep up your gevaldig work!

if u can find out what's the trigger every day and get a solution for it, this should make things much easier, sharing takes off the burden ur shoulder and it gives other people a chance to give u advice which can be a big help at times
We are waiting to see u more often here terrific excellent You are so right. Knowing that my biggest trigger is anxiety- has helped me a lot. I don't think I ever really realized that before.
It is tremendously helpful to share my burden and get responses from the oilam.

Tzvi, you may not realize how valuable the post you just wrote is. Your anxiety is the trigger. Knowing what is triggering you will help you take steps to stop.

When you see yourself getting anxious:

- 1) Turn to Hashem (just talk to Him He's right where you are) to help you confront what you are faced with;
- 2) reach out to a partner or friend tell them how you are feeling. Just the ability to get out of
